Real Flying, Aug. 1.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

[The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.]

YESTERDAY the big Pons-Winnecke comet flew by the earth, only 3,500,000 miles away, traveling eighteen and one-half miles per second. That speed, 666,000 miles an hour, is slow compared with the speed of light, which goes 186,000 miles a second.

And light travels slowly compared with thought, which can transplant itself instantaneously to another universe in distant space, 1,000,000 light years away.

The Fourth of July comes soon. Protect your children. Surgeons paint the skin thoroughly with iodine, that it may be absolutely disinfected, all germs on the surface killed before cutting into it. This makes operating safe. No germs go into the wound, with the knife.

When a firecracker explodes in a child's hand, it blows disease germs into the flesh, beyond reach of iodine, and without immediate surgical attendance, serious consequences are probable. Lockjaw is often caused by apparently trifling Fourth of July accidents.

First keep your children away from explosive firecrackers. Teach them to be patriotic without making noise.

Second, if an accident happens, get a doctor and ONE WHO UNDERSTANDS HIS BUSINESS, immediately.

HISTORY repeats itself in Russia. Leaders of the French Revolution were destroyed by other leaders. Robespierre cut off Danton's head. Greater extremists cut off Robespierre's head. Charlotte Corday assassinated Marat, then Napoleon took charge.

In Russia, Trotzky and Sinovieff, who would have called themselves "natural rulers" of Russia after Lenin's death, are accused of treason. Their expulsion from office is demanded, and they will be lucky if they only lose their offices, not their heads.

Put not your faith in Princes, still less in any child of a revolution.

BEGINNING on August 1, air passenger service from the Atlantic to the Pacific is promised, the trip to take 30 hours.

First will come a straight line air trip from San Francisco to Chicago,

TWO MOTORISTS TO FACE COURT

Traffic violation charges have been filed in municipal court against James Feehan, 830 Cadmus street, and Fred Moracco, whose street address was not given in the police report.

Feehan is alleged to having driven through a red block in the traffic light at the corner of Mulberry street and Pennsylvania avenue at 7:30 o'clock last evening. Patrolman Leslie Curran said he sounded his whistle but Feehan failed to stop.

Moracco is charged with fast and reckless driving. He was arrested in East End at 8:20 o'clock last night by Patrolman Curran.

Intrepid Maitland and Hegenberger Reach Goal.

Hawaiians Go Wild As Airmen Soar Over Wheeler Field.

HONOLULU, June 29.—The Pacific has been "Lindberghed." Swooping down on Wheeler field at 9:05 a. m., Pacific coast time, Lieutenants Lester Maitland and Albert Hegenberger completed the first non-stop flight between the Pacific coast and the Hawaiian Islands.

26-Hour Journey.

From take-off at 7:08 a. m., Pacific coast time at Oakland Cal., until it landed here, it had taken the big trimotored Fokker army plans 26 hours to negotiate the 2,400 landless miles stretching between the mainland and the islands.

Unescorted by an army patrol which was still out looking for their plane, the big olive green air monster made a pretty landing at Wheeler field. The plane was in excellent condition after its long flight and the aviators said they had followed the radio beacon route most of the way.

A huge crowd which had awaited all night lifted a mighty shout as they circled the field and a salute of welcome was fired by guns at Schofield barracks.

Army and Navy Laud Heroes.

Army, navy and civilian officials were here waiting to grasp the hands of the intrepid aviators as they ended their long aerial journey and added a new chapter to man's conquest of the air.

Governor Wallace Farrington, Mayor Charles Arnold, Admiral John McDonald, Edward Lewis, commander of the department of Hawaii, and brother officers were first to pay their homage to the valor of the two youthful flyers who had established that Hawaii is only a little more than 24 hours from the mainland.

Two batallions of the 21st infantry, seventy military police and fifteen Honolulu motor officers patrolled the fields and handled the crowds.

It was a genuine homecoming for Lieut. Lester Maitland. Seven years ago while stationed here he made many pioneer flights about the islands and acquired a host of friends who were on hand to greet him.

A reviewing stand was in readiness

ESCORT OF EIGHT AIRMEN FOLLOWS SEVEN-TON MONOPLANE ON TAKE-OFF

Three Thousand Persons, Who Stand In Rain Waiting to See Jump-Off, Cheer As Silver and Gold "Bus" Moves Down Runway, Lifts Beautifully and Turns Nose Toward Ocean.

By James L. Kilgallen.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., June 29.—The "America" was flying over the Island of Scatari, northeast of Nova Scotia, about 5000 feet above sea level, according to a direct message from Commander R. E. Byrd in the trans-Atlantic plane, received at the hangar here at 2:15 o'clock this afternoon.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, Mineola, N. Y., June 29.—Averaging more than 100 miles an hour, the great silver and gold monoplane "America" is today winging its way toward Paris in a non-stop flight from New York. The big, three-motored plane which hopped off at [illegible] was passing over Nova Scotia, about 600 miles away, at 11 o'clock.

Radio messages are being flashed to the hangar here, the last one direct from the ship, received at 8:41 a. m., and signed by Commander Richard E. Byrd, reporting he was out of sight of land and encountering trouble. The message said:

"Half way between Cape Cod and Yarmouth. Out of sight of land. Weather clearing slightly. Extra cans of gasoline causing trouble with compasses. They can be thrown overboard."

Byrd's message was the first indiction of trouble. Later Providence picked up a message by Lieut. G. O. Noville, the radio expert aboard the plane, in which he asked stations to "Please stand by. I am going to pump gas."

Empties Extra Cans of "Gas"

This was interpreted by Grover Whalen, vice-president of the America Trans-Oceanic company, backers of flight, to mean that Noville was transferring the gasoline from the 27 extra cans into the main tank, so that these extra cans could be thrown overboard, thus eliminating the compass trouble.

All of these cans have steel handles. This steel effects the compass needle and puts it out of plumb.

No further word was expected from the "America" for two hours because Noville would be too busy with his job to take time to send radio dispatches back to the hangar here.

The "America" is making about the same time as Charles A. Lindbergh did in the "Spirit of St. Louis" which averaged about 108 miles an hour in its flight to Paris.

Look Like Condors.

Just at the break of dawn, the "America" roared for more than a half mile down a grassy runway, lifted beautifully and took off on the third trans-Atlantic flight this year. Besides Byrd, and Noville, the plane carried Bert [illegible] Lieut. Bernt Balchen.

As the "America" passed back over Roosevelt field, it was followed by an escort of eight planes. They looked like great sailing condors as they swept across the murky sky. They moved evenly and steadily, their motors whirring rhythmatically, with the "America" in the lead. They were

ROOSEVELT FIELD, Long Island, N. Y., June 29. — Where emotion swayed the other flights, cool reason rides in the cockpit with Commander Richard E. Byrd.

Commander Byrd flies for neither. His career is already established. His flight over the North Pole settled his prestige as dean of air explorers. And of capitalization of personal glory he knows nothing.

He is a sportsman of the first water. At the same time he is not foolhardy but of sound scientific mind, which combination makes for a mental slant that rises high above any personal evaluation.

To them, emotionally, the flight seemed anti-climatic. "Why jeopardize prestige when the glory of the first crossing is gone?" they asked.

The Byrd mind was unable to grasp such a question. The reason for the flight—to him—is as simple as it was when the trip was first planned many months ago.

"My main purpose," he said, "is to learn to some extent the quickest and safest air course to Europe." That's all. And in the next moment a word about the South Pole explorations which he will attempt when he gets back. In adventures aeronautical, Byrd's mind moves as fast as his plane. He has been a reasoning adventurer since childhood.

At twelve he had been around the world. And this career was settled as were the careers of his brothers. They were three, Tom, Dick and Harry. One went in for politics and now is governor of Virginia; another went into business and is a leader in his calling, and the third turned explorer.

The family is of the highest caste. Its personal views never enter into the work of another. The commander's wife and children keep themselves in the background. They will not be sailing over to share in the glories of their hero. Come what may, there never is a grumble. During the long tedious weeks of preparation, and the sudden hop-off of Lindbergh, there was nothing but cheer. Then came the wait for Lindy's return. A flight during that time might have robbed the boy of some of his glory.

All this was the thoughtfulness of the pure-bred gentleman.

Finally, the flight. Pour le sport? (For the sport of it?) To a degree. But mainly for the future safety of humanity without thought of personal glory, aggrandisement or danger.

Commander Byrd flies for neither. His career is already established. His flight over the North Pole settled his prestige as dean of air explorers. And of capitalization of personal glory he knows nothing.

He is a sportsman of the first water. At the same time he is not foolhardy but of sound scientific mind, which combination makes for a mental slant that rises high above any personal evaluation.

To them, emotionally, the flight seemed anti-climatic. "Why jeopardize prestige when the glory of the first crossing is gone?" they asked.

The Byrd mind was unable to grasp such a question. The reason for the flight—to him—is as simple as it was when the trip was first planned many months ago.

"My main purpose," he said, "is to learn to some extent the quickest and safest air course to Europe." That's all. And in the next moment a word about the South Pole explorations which he will attempt when he gets back. In adventures aeronautical, Byrd's mind moves as fast as his plane. He has been a reasoning adventurer since childhood.

At twelve he had been around the world. And this career was settled as were the careers of his brothers. They were three, Tom, Dick and Harry. One went in for politics and now is governor of Virginia; another went into business and is a leader in his calling, and the third turned explorer.

The family is of the highest caste. Its personal views never enter into the work of another. The commander's wife and children keep themselves in the background. They will not be sailing over to share in the glories of their hero. Come what may, there never is a grumble. During the long tedious weeks of preparation, and the sudden hop-off of Lindbergh, there was nothing but cheer. Then came the wait for Lindy's return. A flight during that time might have robbed the boy of some of his glory.

All this was the thoughtfulness of the pure-bred gentleman.

Finally, the flight. Pour le sport? (For the sport of it?) To a degree. But mainly for the future safety of humanity without thought of personal glory, aggrandizement or danger.

SEEK NEW TRIAL IN SEDITION CASE

George Shaffer, of Pittsburgh, and Henry H. Wilson, of Beaver, attorneys for Pete Muselin, Steve Braddick, Tom Zima, Milan Resitar and Philip Widovich, who were convicted of sedition in the Beaver court Saturday, yesterday filed a motion for a new trial on behalf of their clients.

The reasons given in support of the motion were that the court had erred in refusing the petition of the defendants to quash the indictment and also erred in refusing to quash the different counts of the indictments.

It is considered likely that if the motion for a new trial is refused by Judge William A. McConnel, the case will be carried to a higher court.

Youth of the Atlas

BY MARSHALL D. HALL
AUTHOR OF "THE VALLEY OF STONE" and "RIDDLE of the CIRCLE" ETC. ETC.

CHAPTER FORTY-FOUR.

Another piece was out and lighted. Straight through the wrecked door, in among the guards and the astounded man in the scarlet robe it flew spluttering and hissing, to burst with a crash like the crack of doom.

Larry, his ears stunned and deafened by the infernal noises he had created, saw that he had effectually cleared the way; saw, too, that the apertures in the side walls were free now of guards and attendants of the Eye alike. Calmly, he followed his last dynamite projective through the wrecked door and stepped into a room where four dead men lay.

Ruthlessly he stripped the hooded mask from the face of the scarlet robed form. It was the ancient, wrinkled face of the tall Marabout of Adrar that looked up at him, even as he had suspected it would be. As he gazed on the features, no compassion in his glance, heartlessly cold about the whole thing, the marabout moved slightly, stiffened, then was still, a final toll to the last blast.

With none in sight save dead men Larry acted swiftly. He stripped off his own burnouse, rolled it into a compact ball and tossed it on the remains of the faggot pile, which was again flaring brightly in the fire room. Then he drew the robe from the dead marabout and donned it, fixing, too, the hooded mask over his own face. The changes finished, he picked up the body of the dead holy man and tossed it in a corner, covering it with the bodies of the three guards, hoping none of them would be discovered soon. Somehow, he sensed they would not, since this evidently was a place that was presided over by one marabout at a time. It might be days before the catastrophe to their companion was discovered by the remainder of the group.

He ignored the door that had originally let him into this place, and sought another. Finding one he threw it open and walked into another room, meagerly furnished but containing sufficient of clothing and food to indicate that the robed figure who tended the Eye probably spent most of his time here. He walked across the room to another room and pushed it open. This revealed to him a passageway — one that led downward.

Visioning that here, in all probability, was the marabouts' road from the Temple to the Eye, perhaps, even, the road that would lead him to the plume, he calmly closed the door behind him and started downward.

Nor was he thinking of the dead men he had left behind, nor of the wrecked and shattered fireroom and great door.

Rather, he was saying to himself: "Larry Grenfall, you've been a lucky dog so far, but you've got to go easy on that dynamite. You've only five cubes left, and God knows when you may need it again."

Without hurry, and holding a great, abiding faith in the disguising powers of his scarlet robe, he walked leisurely downward, taking the steps singly until he came to a sloping, smooth-surfaced inclined path. The way was lighted at intervals by the never ending red torches. It came to him that the entire road to the Temple in all probability would be through this tunnel in the mountain that he was traversing.

At the bottom of the passageway Larry found a door, outside of which two men stood with drawn swords. At his approach they salaamed deeply and one of them threw the portal open. He stepped inside, sensing that he was in a vacant outer chamber, or sort of ante-room; probably this was the entrance to an important assembling place of the Marabout Group.

He wondered if he would be able to carry out his guise if he should come suddenly upon any members of the group. Instinctively he shrank and drooped his shoulders until, so nearly as he could judge, he was holding himself about as the dead holy man would have done. Their heights had been about the same and Larry was confident he could mimic the other's thin, somewhat nasal voice that always croaked a little under excitement. With his courage flaming high within him he stepped across the little room and threw aside a heavy, crimson curtain that cut it off across one end.

He was now back in the tribal room, and a gathering of the Marabout Group was underway!

His approach was noticed instantly and figures stirred as he entered. Larry, casting his gaze swiftly about him, saw there were six others present beside himself, and each man was garbed in scarlet robe and hooded mask similar to those he himself was wearing. On the breast of each robe was a symbol, woven in gold thread, and each symbol differed. Something about the marks struck the American as being familiar, and he dropped his eyes until he could see the symbol that graced his own bosom. He heard a voice address him:

"We have waited your coming, Tribe One. The Ordeal, then is finished?"

At that "Tribe One" Larry recognized suddenly the import of the symbols—they were Islamic numerals, and they ran from one to seven. His own was number one. As he realized the meaning of the marks he had a fleeting vision of a tiny replica of a sweet musk balsam flower that he had found in Ben Mansour's chest, each of its seven petals bearing a number. They could mean only one thing — the Seven Tribes of the Berbers.

Here, then, was a marabout for each of the greater Berber tribes; each of these six men who faced him represented a tribe and all were allied in a common cause against France and civilization in Morocco; and this, without a doubt, was the infamous, red-handed Marabout Group, the group that had forsaken its religious teachings and had turned to arms and intrigues. Evidently, he was wearing the robe of a member of this very group, and unless all the signs failed, the dead man had been the leader—for he had been Tribe One!

His voice was calm and thin slightly nasal, a perfect imitation of the tones of the Marabout of Adrar when he answered the question that had bee nhurled at him:

"The Ordeal, indeed, is finished. He who was el-rogui, the pretender, could not stand against the flames of the Prophet's Eye. His bones bleach even now, for the fire has cooked the flesh from them."

"So may Allah deal with all infidel dogs who serve Spain and oppose the group," said a robe bearing the symbol of Tribe Three.

Larry re-echoed the words and stepped forward, noticing as he did so that the group stood aside, making an aisle down which he was to advance to a pile of cushions that resposed at the head of the piles the now standing men had been uing as couches when he entered. His heart beat rapidly, his pulses on fire, he walked forward steadily, made aware by this act of the marabouts that the Marabout of Adrar had ,indeed, been the leader of these men; therefore Larry, as the Marabout of Adrar, was now the commander or guiding force of those about him. Quietly he took his seat and the others now sat, also.

BILLIE DOVE AT THE STRAND

"Sensation Seekers" Is Screen Bill Today.

Billie Dove, considered the screen's most beautiful woman, and Huntley Gordon, one of its handsomest men, share the starring honors while a supporting cast of unusual merit was corralled for this feature.

For weeks before the ball was given the Universal wardrobe worked feverishly making unusual costumes for the dancers. Among some of the costumes worn by the cast were those of rabbits, oriental dancers, cupids, newspaper headlines, ballet girls and many other sensational garbs too numerous to mention.

An immense ball room set was constructed, perfectly decorated as a country club and peopled with the most charming supernumeraries obtainable—and Hollywood is noted for its pulchritude.

Oue of the most noted orchestras on the West coast was obtained to play the latest dance music and the dancers enjoyed the pleasure of a real frolic.

Youth of the Atlas

CHAPTER FORTY-FOUR.

Another piece was out and lighted. Straight through the wrecked door, in among the guards and the astounded man in the scarlet robe it flew spluttering and hissing, to burst with a crash like the crack of doom.

Larry, his ears stunned and deafened by the infernal noises he had created, saw that he had effectually cleared the way; saw, too, that the apertures in the side walls were free now of guards and attendants of the Eye alike. Calmly, he followed his last dynamite projective through the wrecked door and stepped into a room where four dead men lay.

Ruthlessly he stripped the hooded mask from the face of the scarlet robed form. It was the ancient, wrinkled face of the tall Marabout of Adrar that looked up at him, even as he had suspected it would be. As he gazed on the features, no compassion in his glance, heartlessly cold about the whole thing, the marabout moved slightly, stiffened, then was still, a final toll to the last blast.

With none in sight save dead men Larry acted swiftly. He stripped off his own burnouse, rolled it into a compact ball and tossed it on the remains of the faggot pile, which was again flaring brightly in the fire room. Then he drew the robe from the dead marabout and donned it, fixing, too, the hooded mask over his own face. The changes finished, he picked up the body of the dead holy man and tossed it in a corner, covering it with the bodies of the three guards, hoping none of them would be discovered soon. Somehow, he sensed they would not, since this evidently was a place that was presided over by one marabout at a time. It might be days before the catastrophe to their companion was discovered by the remainder of the group.

He ignored the door that had originally let him into this place, and sought another. Finding one he threw it open and walked into another room, meagerly furnished but containing sufficient of clothing and food to indicate that the robed figure who tended the Eye probably spent most of his time here. He walked across the room to another room and pushed it open. This revealed to him a passageway — one that led downward.

Visioning that here, in all probability, was the marabouts' road from the Temple to the Eye, perhaps, even, the road that would lead him to the plume, he calmly closed the door behind him and started downward.

Nor was he thinking of the dead men he had left behind, nor of the wrecked and shattered fireroom and great door.

Rather, he was saying to himself: "Larry Grenfall, you've been a lucky dog so far, but you've got to go easy on that dynamite. You've only five cubes left, and God knows when you may need it again."

Without hurry, and holding a great, abiding faith in the disguising powers of his scarlet robe, he walked leisurely downward, taking the steps singly until he came to a sloping, smooth-surfaced inclined path. The way was lighted at intervals by the never ending red torches. It came to him that the entire road to the Temple in all probability would be through this tunnel in the mountain that he was traversing.

At the bottom of the passageway Larry found a door, outside of which two men stood with drawn swords. At his approach they salaamed deeply and one of them threw the portal open. He stepped inside, sensing that he was in a vacant outer chamber, or sort of ante-room; probably this was the entrance to an important assembling place of the Marabout Group.

He wondered if he would be able to carry out his guise if he should come suddenly upon any members of the group. Instinctively he shrank and drooped his shoulders until, so nearly as he could judge, he was holding himself about as the dead holy man would have done. Their heights had been about the same and Larry was confident he could mimic the other's thin, somewhat nasal voice that always croaked a little under excitement. With his courage flaming high within him he stepped across the little room and threw aside a heavy, crimson curtain that cut it off across one end.

He was now back in the tribal room, and a gathering of the Marabout Group was underway!

His approach was noticed instantly and figures stirred as he entered. Larry, casting his gaze swiftly about him, saw there were six others present beside himself, and each man was garbed in scarlet robe and hooded mask similar to those he himself was weering. On the breast of each robe was a symbol, woven in gold thread, and each symbol differed. Something about the marks struck the American as being familiar, and he dropped his eyes until he could see the symbol that graced his own bosom. He heard a voice address him:

"We have waited your coming, Tribe One. The Ordeal, then is finished?"

At that "Tribe One" Larry recognized suddenly the import of the symbols—they were Islamic numerals, and they ran from one to seven. His own was number one. As he realized the meaning of the marks he had a fleeting vision of a tiny replica of a sweet musk balsam flower that he had found in Ben Mansour's chest, each of its seven petals bearing a number. They could mean only one thing — the Seven Tribes of the Berbers.

Here, then, was a marabout for each of the greater Berber tribes; each of these six men who faced him represented a tribe and all were allied in a common cause against France and civilization in Morocco; and this, without a doubt, was the infamous, red-handed Marabout Group, the group that had forsaken its religious teachings and had turned to arms and intrigues. Evidently, he was wearing the robe of a member of this very group, and unless all the signs failed, the dead man had been the leader—for he had been Tribe One!

His voice was calm and thin, slightly nasal, a perfect imitation of the tones of the Marabout of Adrar when he answered the question that had bee nhurled at him:

"The Ordeal, indeed, is finished. He who was el-rogui, the pretender, could not stand against the flames of the Prophet's Eye. His bones bleach even now, for the fire has cooked the flesh from them."

"So may Allah deal with all infidel dogs who serve Spain and oppose the group," said a robe bearing the symbol of Tribe Three.

Larry re-echoed the words and stepped forward, noticing as he did so that the group stood aside, making an aisle down which he was to advance to a pile of cushions that resposed at the head of the piles the now standing men had been uing as couches when he entered. His heart beat rapidly, his pulses on fire, he walked forward steadily, made aware by this act of the marabouts that the Marabout of Adrar had, indeed, been the leader of these men; therefore Larry, as the Marabout of Adrar, was now the commander or guiding force of those about him. Quietly he took his seat and the others now sat, also.

BILLIE DOVE AT THE STRAND

"Sensation Seekers" Is Screen Bill Today.

One of the most gorgeous fancy dress balls ever staged for a motion picture was filmed for Lois Weber's latest spectacular production "The Sensation Seekers," the Universal-Jewel which will be screened at the Strand theatre beginning today.

Billie Dove, considered the screen's most beautiful woman, and Huntley Gordon, one of its handsomest men, share the starring honors while a supporting cast of unusual merit was corralled for this feature.

For weeks before the ball was given the Universal wardrobe worked feverishly making unusual costumes for the dancers. Among some of the costumes worn by the cast were those of rabbits, oriental dancers, cupids, newspaper headlines, ballet girls and many other sensational garbs too numerous to mention.

An immense ball room set was constructed, perfectly decorated as a country club and peopled with the most charming supernumeraries obtainable—and Hollywood is noted for its pulchritude.

Oue of the most noted orchestras on the West coast was obtained to play the latest dance music and the dancers enjoyed the pleasure of a real frolic.

New Electors Must Register

Men and women who shall attain their majority on or before Tuesday, November 8, date of the general election, can exercise the right of suffrage at the August 9 primaries, when Republican and Democratic nominees for municipal offices will be named, if they register.

Likewise, electors residing in the recently annexed zone in Maplewood and other Northside sections as well as in other parts of the township must enroll in order to qualify for a voice in the selection of the party tickets.

The election board has designated Friday and Saturday, August 5 and 6, as registration days. Registrars will be on duty in the 22 precincts of the city, including the new sub-division on the Northside, to enroll voters and issue transfers to electors who have changed their place of residence since the fall of 1926.

Don't sacrifice the suffrage privilege.

Germany Favored in China

The Germans have got off very easily in the Chinese mix-up. Hardly any of their people have been molested. The turbulent natives seem to have made a special effort to treat the Germans with kindness and respect.

This, a Kansas editor suggests, is not because of any German threats, but precisely the opposite. Germany has had no gunboats on the Chinese rivers, no sailors and marines in Chinese seaports. She has not blustered either militarily or diplomatically.

There may have been no particular virtue in this. Germany is not in position to do much foreign blustering at present. And there have been times when she used the mailed fist in China, far worse than some of the other powers have done in the recent unpleasantness. The matter is merely mentioned now to show at least a remarkable coincidence.

Germany has not used force in China, and German citizens have been well treated, and Germany is being favored in Chinese trade. There is probably a useful lesson in this for other powers.

New Troubles in Ireland

The belief, recently current in this country, that De Valera was no longer a force to be reckoned with in Ireland, proved to have been wrong. His party in the recent national election carried enough parliamentary districts to threaten the present Irish government, and even the existence of the Irish Republic as now constituted.

The Fianna Fail, headed by De Valera, is still a minority party. But there is no clear majority in the parliament, so a new ministry is expected.

What part De Valera and his uncompromising followers, demanding complete independence for Ireland, will take in the new government is not yet certain. They may continue to bar themselves from public office by refusing to take the oath of allegiance to the Irish Republic. In that case, remaining outside, there would be possibility of a new civil war.

The best thing for Ireland, apparently, would be the entrance of the Valera group into the Irish parliament as a minority ever ready to criticise and assert its own principles, but co-operating in the general work of government. That is the way we do things in the United States, where De Valera got his political training.

Young Swimmer

Two 13-year old girls, twins, have been swimming the Hudson river from Albany to New York and making a good record. Their athletic ability and nerve challenge public admiration.

There is less admiration for the judgment of their parents and backers.

There is very serious question whether any 13-year-old children, whether girls or boys, but especially girls, ought to engage in strenuous and exhausting contests of any kind. That is the age for growth. Healthful development may be checked and lasting evils produced by any prolonged strain of physical endurance.

Jewels.

A New York millionaire named Albert Lorsh, who died a year or two ago, had made his fortune in precious stones. In appraising that fortune now, the state tax commission finds that of the total $3,190,000, only $950 is in jewelry. The owner did not care to keep the jewels that passed through his hands. He preferred money, and stocks and bonds representing money.

In India or China the whole fortune might have consisted in a treasure box full of precious stones. But not in America.

Rich men in countries old in civilization but primitive in their finance hoard jewels and gold unproductively, as the only safe liquid form of wealth they are familiar with. America, with a good banking system, regards bank notes and securities as an altogether trustworthy form of treasury, and expresses wealth in dollars and makes those dollars work, thus multiplying her wealth.

A VOICE FROM THE VOID

Once upon a time I was asked what I considered to be the funniest short story in the English language. After the thought I decided on this one:

A group of big leaguers on their spring training trip were marooned by rain one morning so that they could not go to the ball field for practice. They sat under the portico of the Texas hotel where they were quartered and swapped small talk. An admiring ring of villagers surrounded them.

A languid, ragged negro drew near, anchoring himself at the outer edge of the audience. He laughed with loud appreciation at every sally from this or than visiting notable. He had the look about him of one seeking a suitable opportunity to solicit the gift of a small sum from some generous white stranger. But hour after hour passed with no proper opening until the forenoon was spent.

Suddenly the whistle on the canning factory across the street from the hotel let go with a blast and the hands came trooping out bearing their lunch pails.

Uh uh' dar she goes," said the darky, as the siren voice died away. "Hit's dinner time fur some folks—but jes' twelve o'clock for me."

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 29.—Native New Yorkers—and strangely enough there are a number hereabouts—are kicking over the traces. For years they have been nursing, perhaps, a justifiable wrath over the metropolis being taken over by translucent eared galoots from the forks of the creek.

The Irvin Cobbs from Paducah, the Sinclair Lewises from Sauk Center, the Ray Longs from Lebanon and sundry and one gallused hicks have been copping all the Gotham glory too long. It is asserted and deservedly so that a few of the boys and girls reared here are finding a place in the pot.

It is the contention of such that they have been sitting around as inconspicuous as the sewing woman at a house party while apple knockers shine as "typical New Yorkers." They further resent the popular picture of the city boy as a Rollo with curls in a velvet suit.

They claim they have hooked onto the tail end of wagons, swiped seasonable fruit from the green grocer's stall, tripped up benign old gentlemen with pavement ropes nad indulged other youthful peccadillos; the same as the freckle faced pea shooters in the Toothpick Belt.

It is true in a measure that the clod hoppers give Manhattan its sartorial sheen—its savoir faire. They are the boys who court head waiters, wear the spats, lapel gardenias, walking sticks, waspish coats and other fashionable fripperies.

The born New Yorker is sartorially sedate as a rule. He patronizes the tailor who habited his sire and grandsire. And as one of the invading outlanders I am inclined to believe he is less bumptious in his attitude toward the world. He has dignity and much social poise.

Too, he has been surprisingly decent in extending the welcoming hand to the interloper. Far more gracious indeed than the hospitality often extended to the city slicker stranger who casts his lot amid the peaceful purlieus of Main street.

Yet I believe the gotch-eared yap gets more enjoyment out of New York than the smug resident. He has a perennial wonder for its overwhelming bigness, grandeur and worldly charm. The native has been brought up on such sights. They do not thrill.

Speaking of sod business, in a barber shop the other morning one in a wide hat suggesting the pampas clumped into a chair at a manicure girl's table. "Miss," he said a little sheepishly, "just tickle the quick, will you please." He wanted his nails done.

That is indicative of the country boy's first gesture when he comes to town. He goes to the barber shop and tells them "to shoot the works." This countryman going out inquired of the head barber: "Are you the bull barber?" With a confused look, the proprietor bowed his acknowledgement and was presented with a rat tailed stogie.

The hill billies are my people and I like them. It can at least be said that without them New York would not be so much. Had we no red fronted five and ten cent stores in the village we would have no Woolworth Tower in New York. Broadway would have cathedral-like movie halls without the Bijou Dreams along Main street and so on. New York after all does not belong to New Yorkers. It belongs to the world. The country boys contribute more to its progress than the metropolic contributes to the country town by a long shot. There is a disposition among New Yorkers to smile at our provincialism and log cabin origin but so far as my genealogical researches go most of the ancestors of our hoity toity Knickerbocker families wore breeches half soled in leather and either peddled pole-cat skins or slopped hogs for market.

Finally it is my conviction that the country boys have accomplished more here than the home products.

HASKINS' LETTER
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Increasing Speed Limit.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—Maryland traffic authorities have increased the speed limti for automotive vehicles and for an experimental period at least motorists may hit it up to 40 miles an hour on the fine highways of that state. Heretofore the maximum speed permitted has been 35 miles. The new markers have been placed along the state roads and traffic is moving at a materially accelerated pace in the Cockade state this summer of 1927.

The minimum speed limit of 15 miles an hour in certain places remains the same, nor have the 20-mile and 25-mile limits been moved up to correspond with the increase in the maximum. In a few places the 35-mile markers are still to be found, controlling stretches of roadway where it was not deemed advisable to permit the extra five miles an hour.

This is an experiment that will be watched with keen interest by officials and automobile people generally. Sharp differences of opinion have been expressed by traffic experts as to its wisdom. Some of them contend that highway congestion has made it not only wise but imperative, and say that inasmuch as a 40-mile speed has been tacitly permitted already in many places the legal limit should be advanced accordingly. Anyhow, traffic must be speeded up in some way.

Others insist that 35 miles an hour is the highest speed at which motor vehicles can be operated and kept under control to a degree essential to traffic safety. They admit that where allowed 35 many motorists have been accustomed to drive 40 and even 45 miles an hour, and their violations of the regulations have been winked at by officers unless it was manifestly a case of reckless driving, but they argue that this is the most serious objection to raising the legal limit. Motorists who have been driving 40 and 45 miles an hour and getting away with it, they say, will now step on the gas and go 45 and 50. Given an inch, they will take an ell—a trait in human nature that was discovered several centuries before there was such a thing as a speed or traffic problem, and noted by John Heywood in his "Proverbes" in 1546.

This exceeding the speed limit by a few motorists under the old regulations was not such a serious matter, it is contended, because the great majority of drivers kept well within the law and with the bulk of the traffic moving at 35 miles or less, the 40 and 45-milers could flash in and out and along and rarely jeopardize themselves or others. But with the bulk of the traffic speeded up to 40 miles, the speeders who insist upon going faster than anybody else become a positive menace.

The point is also made that there are many drivers who, conscious of their own limitations or those of their mechanics, never attempted to make more than 25 or 30 miles, and they could no that, or even drop down to 22 or 20, without balling up traffic with the limit at 35 miles. With a 40 mile maximum, however, these drivers will be compelled to increase their rate or get run over or pushed off the road, and the extra speed they will eassy will be just enough to make them and their cars serious traffic dangers—possibly more serious than the speedsters and their machines.

The experts who favor the increased speed limit admit the force of these arguments, but they still insist that the 35-mile limit breeds relatively the same traffic menaces and at the same time makes for congestion on the highways. If they could have their way about it there would be no speed limit. They say that a car may be driven 50 miles an hour and be less of a traffic menace than one driven at half that speed, and that reckless driving is not to be determined by speed, but by speed, plus the manner in which the car is being handled, plus the place and conditions where the speeding is done.

Accordingly, if they had their way motorists would be permitted to drive as fast as they pleased, or as fast as their cars could go, at any time and at any place, but they would be subject to arrest and liable to severe punishment whenever and wherever they drove at such a speed or in such a manner that they were a menace to traffic. Thus a man might be arrested who was going only 20 miles an hour, or even more slowly, in a given situation, while under different conditions he might drive 50 or 60 miles an hour and never hear a traffic officer's whistle or the gruff words, "W'at d'ye think you're doin'—flyin'?"

Make Them Think Twice.

Proponents of this theory of traffic regulation concedes that it would fall down unless violators incurred penalties sufficiently drastic to make them think twice before they acted recklessly once. A heavy fine for a first offense and a jail sentence for a second, they say, should be the minimum punishment, with the revoking of the driver's permit at the discretion of the court. "Treat 'em rough when they act rough" is the course favored.

Manifestly there can be no revoking of a driver's permit in states where operators of motor vehicles are not required to have permits. There are a few states, yet, where such a condition obtains. In those states anybody can drive a car who can start it and keep it moving. He may be blind in one eye and near-sighted in the other. He may not be able to distinguish between a red and a green light. He may not be able to hear a traffic signal or to read a traffic sign, and he may not know anything whatever about traffic regulation. He may be insane. But he may drive a car in city streets or country highways, if he has one, or if one is entrusted to him. That, however is

RONALD COLMAN IN SCREEN HIT

A great photoplay of the American desert is Henry King's production of "The Winning of Barbara Worth" for Samuel Goldwyn, at the Ceramic theatre. Based on the famous novel of the same name, the motion picture version loses none of the power of the Harold Bell Wright story which thrilled more than ten million readers.

The production is another triumphant success for Mr. King, whose "Stella Dallas," an entirely different type of photoplay, is still casting brilliant reflections on his genius. Masterful touches of supreme directions are evident throughout the desert masterpiece.

The tense and romantic story of the water reclamation of the vast western wastelands is the theme of the picture. It opens with the first tricklings of humanity coming slowly to the desert. It portrays the sufferings, trials and disappointments of the pioneer, and unlike most productions, carries the work of reclamation through to ultimate success, affording, by the way, an interesting and complete education on that great and important work—irrigation.

Ronald Colman, hero of many moving picture ballrooms and heretofore associated largely with drawing room roles, steps forth in a new and delightful portrayal of Willard Holmes, young eastern engineer who comes to the desert to manage the irrigation projects of his foster father. His part calls for strenuous outdoor ability, climaxed by a long desert ride with Abe Lee, western youth, to bring a payroll through bandit-infested country to the struggling town of Barba, founded by Jefferson Worth, rival of Holmes' foster father.

Vilma Banky, blonde beauty of the screen, cooperates with Colman and a delightful Spanish moon in supplying the love element. A Barabara well worth winning is Vilma, whose radiance in the desert setting inspires young Holmes and Abe Lee, the western lad, to great deeds.

In addition, Miss Banky demonstrates her versatility by playing the mother of the infant Barbara in the prologue, which sets a high pitch for the action which follows—some eighteen years later. The role calls for the maximum of dramatic interpretation, the pathetic mother being a decided contrast to the gay Barbara of later years.

The two stars are supported by a strong cast. Charles Lane creates a strong role as Jefferson Worth, father of the desert country and the man who is the moving spirit of the reclamation work. As Abe Lee, the young westerner who loved, lost, but stilled loved, the work of Gary Cooper, a relative newcomer to the screen, stood out. E. J. Ratcliffe, veteran character actor, plays James Greenfield, money-loving eastern capitalist, who financed the building of a great irrigation dam and founded the desert town of Kingston, placing Willard Holmes, his foster son, in charge.

Paul McAllister, as the visionary Seer, the eastern man who came to the desert with dreams of its fertility and who dedicated his enginering skill to the great cause, lived the role in which he was cast.

The comedy element of the production found excellent treatment in the hands of Clye Cook, well-known Australian comedian, who plays Tex, an old desert rat, and Erwin Connelly, as "Pat," his two-fisted Irish partner. Sam Blum also contributed some excellent comedy bits as Blanton, the tool of Greenfield in his shady business operations.

one of the evils that the Hoover committee is seeking to correct by bringing about the adoption of the uniform traffic code, which includes a driver's license law.

It is too early as yet to get any authoritative returns on Maryland's experiment in increasing the speed limit, and even the state police who patrol the highways are not keen to express opinions about it. One officer who was questioned said that he could not see that it had made any great difference in traffic conditions or in the number of accidents.

"But," he said, "I know it's got me tuned up a notch or two higher, and if it has the same effect on automobile drivers I'm doubtin' that it's for the best. Y' know, it's my notion that anything that's runnin' above 35 miles an hour ought to be runnin' on rails, or up in the air, and not on a narrow ribbon of concrete that something else is always usin' the half of, or maybe more."

This same officer said he was not so much concerned about the speeding up of traffic as a result of the new regulation as he was about finding some way to control the motorist who is always trying to pass another car on a hill on a curve, or in a situation where there is traffic coming at him and he must take a chance on swinging out and back into his own lane without hitting any one of three cars—the one he's passing, the one that's coming at him, and the one in front of him if he succeeeds in getting back into his own lane.

"If they're keepin' a place hot for anybody, it ought to be for guys like that," said the cop.

Struggling in the water near the motorboat they were nearly exhausted when Foulk appeared on the deck and told them to stand up. They were in four feet of water.

RONALD COLMAN IN SCREEN HIT

A great photoplay of the American desert is Henry King's production of "The Winning of Barbara Worth" for Samuel Goldwyn, at the Ceramic theatre. Based on the famous novel of the same name, the motion picture version loses none of the power of the Harold Bell Wright story which thrilled more than ten million readers.

The production is another triumphant success for Mr. King, whose "Stella Dallas," an entirely different type of photoplay, is still casting brilliant reflections on his genius. Masterful touches of supreme directions are evident throughout the desert masterpiece.

The tense and romantic story of the water reclamation of the vast western wastelands is the theme of the picture. It opens with the first tricklings of humanity coming slowly to the desert. It portrays the sufferings, trials and disappointments of the pioneer, and unlike most productions, carries the work of reclamation through to ultimate success, affording, by the way, an interesting and complete education on that great and important work—irrigation.

Ronald Colman, hero of many moving picture ballrooms and heretofore associated largely with drawing room roles, steps forth in a new and delightful portrayal of Willard Holmes, young eastern engineer who comes to the desert to manage the irrigation projects of his foster father. His part calls for strenuous outdoor ability, climaxed by a long desert ride with Abe Lee, western youth, to bring a payroll through bandit-infested country to the struggling town of Barba, founded by Jefferson Worth, rival of Holmes' foster father.

Vilma Banky, blonde beauty of the screen, cooperates with Colman and a delightful Spanish moon in supplying the love element. A Barabara well worth winning is Vilma, whose radiance in the desert setting inspires young Holmes and Abe Lee, the western lad, to great deeds.

In addition, Miss Banky demonstrates her versatility by playing the mother of the infant Barbara in the prologue, which sets a high pitch for the action which follows—some eighteen years later. The role calls for the maximum of dramatic interpretation, the pathetic mother being a decided contrast to the gay Barbara of later years.

The two stars are supported by a strong cast. Charles Lane creates a strong role as Jefferson Worth, father of the desert country and the man who is the moving spirit of the reclamation work. As Abe Lee, the young westerner who loved, lost, but stilled loved, the work of Gary Cooper, a relative newcomer to the screen, stood out. E J. Ratcliffe, veteran character actor, plays James Greenfield, money-loving eastern capitalist, who financed the building of a great irrigation dam and founded the desert town of Kingston, placing Willard Holmes, his foster son, in charge.

Paul McAllister, as the visionary Seer, the eastern man who came to the desert with dreams of its fertility and who dedicated his enginering skill to the great cause, lived the role in which he was cast.

Sublime in conception, illuminating in execution and deeply inspiring and impressive in its assimilation by those viewing it was "The Story Beautiful" as told in pantomine by more than 200 persons for the second and final time at Thompson park last evening. Another large throng witnessed it.

Minus some of the naturally rough edges attending the initial giving of the pageant on the previous evening the ensemble of characters delineated their several parts with an added smoothness that was easily distinguishable.

Throughout the 15 episodes depicted the background, occurrences and concepts of the Scriptural narrative of the Nazarene's life on earth was outstandingly portrayed.

With rare delicacy, the different events, emphasized in human but noiseless movement, were indicated in refreshing musical strains and harmonies which the large accompanying choir, directed by Thomas Wade Lane of Cleveland, and accompanied by Mrs. Lane and Helen Freeman Gigliotti, also of the Forest City.

The choral aid was particularly explanatory and contributing in the episodes of "The Sermon on the Mount," "The Voice in the Wilderness" and "The Trial Before Pilate."

The Lord's Supper was realistically shown amid a subdued combination of lights that made of it an occurrence at once sublime and compelling.

Again the twelve apostles performed notably their roles; once more the triumphal march captivated in its thrilling beauty of exactitude to what must have been the original happening; as before the costumes stood out in their lines of Palestinian reproduction.

All the members of the assisting coterie from the Thomas Wade Lane Studios of Cleveland which directed the pageant went to Meadville also.

Following the Meadville engagement Rachel Travis Beckwith and Helen Freeman Gigliotti, who directed the preliminary work here, will go to Conneaut, Pa., where within ten days another rendition will be given.

Arrangements have been made for the event in Ashtabula, New Philadelphia and Steubenville during the near future. Three states, it is expected, will be permitted to witness the pageant during the summer.

The scenic appurtenances of the production which in soft shadows of the night, tinctured by glowing and subdued lights, made for a mountainous background with usable passes so common in the Holy Land. The setting accordingly was well nigh perfect, the lighting necessary marvelous, the pantomime movements exacting and the musical contribution superior and inspiring.

Immediately following the pageant's conclusion the work of dismantling the properties was begun and carried on far into the night. At its conclusion the large truck and trailer was started for Meadville, Pa., where the pageant will be given Thursday and Friday evenings.

Unkept Hands Spoil Entire Effect

Every woman should have soft, white, youthful hands to complete the picture of daintiness expected of her.

While eating, dancing, playing cards, in fact, whatever you do, your hands are noticed as much as your complexion. You can't neglect them without spoiling the impression you make by being well groomed in every other detail.

The easiest way to keep your hands soft, white and firm is to massage them with the dainty lotion you can make by simply squeezing the juice of two lemons into a bottle of Orchad White, which you can get from your nearest dealer. It clears and refines the skin, making toil-worn and stained hands look like a queen's.

Shortage of Workers Handicaps Drive, Leaders Say.

Albert Frosch's Division Sets Pace; Bode's Team First.

Handicapped by a shortage of workers, the Boy Scout committee fell short of their goal by nearly $700 in yesterday's 10-hour campaign to raise $4,000, representing the East Liverpool-Chester-Newell quota in the budget of the Columbiana County council.

Subscriptions and cash contributions reported by the campaign workers following dinner in the banquet hall of the Y. M. C. A. at 6 o'clock last evening showed a total of $3,320.56 of which $1,286.06 was collected by the Division A group, in charge of L. W. Smith, $1,234.50 by Division B, led by Albert W. Frosch, and approximately $800 by the executive committee.

While about 135 workers were enlisted in the campaign not more than 50 actually took part in the drive. Not more than half of the prospective contributors were called upon, it is said.

The district quota in the $6,800 budget of the county organization was $3,600, but an additional $400 was sought in order to take care of campaign expenses and the shrinkage in collections. Persons who were out of the city yesterday will be called upon following their return. The committee expects the quota will be attained within a week.

T. E. Lewis, campaign chairman, who presided at last night's meeting, expressed the thanks of the executive committee to the workers for their assistance and to all those who had contributed.

ALMA MACKALL, 13, STRUCK BY AUTO

Alma Mackall, 13, Island avenue, sustained a scalp laceration when struck by an automobile driven by Wilbert Taylor, Dry Run, at Columbian Park last evening.

The child was playing about the roller skating rink at the upper end of the ball grounds when Taylor, driving a Ford speedster on the old race track course, ran her down. Police claim Taylor abandoned the car and fled.

Taylor, accompanied by Attorney James E. Davis, East End, appeared before Municipal Judge Hanley today. He agreed to dispose of the machine and to pay the child's hospital expenses.

GALION, Ohio, June 29.—Clues to the six bandits who robbed the Commercial Savings bank of $15,000 in cash and $75,000 in bonds, yesterday, were meagre here today, and a trail that led through Kirkwood and Martel terminated in a dead end.

Ora Slater, Cincinnati detective, at work on other cases in this vicinity, is aiding local authorities in their attempt to trace the bank robbers.

BELFAST, June 29.—Weather reports from south and western Ireland today indicated moderate southwestern winds, prevailing over the eastern Atlantic. This would be favorable to Commander Byrd's flight.

ADENA MINE CLASH OCCURS

Bricks Alleged to Have Been Thrown at Workers

STEUBENVILLE, O., June 29.—The first disturbance since the Pittsburgh Coal company was refused a court injunction several days ago, to restrain striking miners from interfering with operation of their mine near Adena, occurred today when several bricks were hurled at alleged non-union men, according to reports reaching the sheriff's office here.

About two hundred striking miners and their wives gathered at Adena, the report said, while employes of the mine were going through the town on the way to work.

The report stated that R. W. McCausland and Albie Strickler were hit with bricks and injured, and that the brick throwing occurred while deputy sheriffs were in the crowd, but happened so quickly that they were unable to seize the persons responsible.

COLUMBUS, O., June 29.—As the personal representative of Governor Vic Donahey, Col. Robert Haubrich, Ohio national guard, today started for Guernsey and Jefferson counties to inspect conditions in the vicinity of the Kimbolton mine, near Cambridge and the Robyville mine, near Adena.

Officials of the Cleveland Collieries and the Pittsburgh Coal companies, who are endeavoring to operate the Kimbolton and Robyville mines, respectively, on a non-union basis, sent appeals to the governor for state aid, including the services of state militiamen, to prevent striking union miners from interfering with operations of these mines.

Claim was made that strikers sought to intimidate the non-union workers and prevent them from working.

Aviators Conquer Pacific

By ELLIS H. MARTIN.

Perfect Take-off for Army Plane.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 29.—With San Francisco far behind and Honolulu, the goal, within striking distance, the giant army Fokker monoplane was roaring over the Pacific ocean early today.

Piloted by Lieut. Lester Maitland and navigated by Lieut. Hegenberger, the monoplane took off from the Oakland municipal airport at 7:08 o'clock yesterday morning.

A few moments later it was droning over the Pacific, its three motors hitting on all cylinders.

The monoplane moved toward its goal with clock-like regularity as the daylight hours passed and the intrepid flyers were more than half way to the goal as dusk enveloped them.

Sighted by Steamer.

The flyers were last sighted yesterday afternoon by the steamer Sonoma. They were 724 miles west of San Francisco. The motors of the Fokker plane were still working perfectly as it passed to the side of the steamer and winged its way toward the setting sun.

At 8:30 o'clock last night, the steamer President Cleveland reported that the plane was communicating with the steamer President Pierce by radio. Lieut. Hegenberger was requesting the Pierce for bearings. When this communication was overheard, the Cleveland was 1,140 miles from San Francisco.

Although the monoplane flew into a mild rain storm in mid-ocean, the weather last night favored the fliers. The skies are still overcast off Honolulu, but the fliers had the advantage of a tail wind during the late hours of last night. Advices received from Honolulu then reported the wind blowing at the rate of 34 miles an hour at a 2,000 foot altitude.

With this wind at their back and the gasoline supply becoming lighter, the army officers were able to increase the speed of the monoplane.

At 1 o'clock this morning no further word had been heard of the plane. But it is thought that it was still careening through space, with victory perched in the cockpit along with the two brave airmen.

Hungry and Want Cigarette.

"I'm hungry," were the first words of Lieut. Hegenberger as he stepped from the cabin of the plane.

"Let's have a cigarette" was the first request of Lieut. Maitland as he stuck his head from the pilot's compartment with a boyish grin.

"They put in coffee and sandwiches, but we couldn't find them," Hegenberger explained.

"Congratulations, my boy," General Edward Lewis, commander of the department of Hawaii, said to Maitland as he climbed from the plane.

"That's fine, thanks," responded Maitland, "but give me a cigarette."

"We had a fine trip," the flyers chorushed as officials hung wreaths of flowers about their shoulders and escorted them to the platform for their official welcome.

RADIO BEAMS GUIDE FLYERS OVER PACIFIC

Lieutenants Lester J. Maitland and Albert F. Hegenberger, pilot and navigator of the giant three-motored Fokker entered by the Army in the San Francisco-Honolulu flight, are depending on radio signals to hold them to their course on the ocean hop. Radio signals projected in a direct line from both San Francisco and Paia, in the Hawaiian islands, are heard while the plane remains on its course. If it deviates off-course the signals stop. In the upper photo above is a view of the harbor of Honolulu; and below is a photo showing Lieutenant Hegenberger "shooting" the sun across the plane. Insets are, upper left, Lieutenant Maitland, and below, to the right, Lieutenant Hegenberger.

GRACE READY TO HOP OFF

Los Angeles Man to Fly From Hawaii to California.

KAUAI, H. I., June 29.—Richard Grace, Los Angeles aviator, was preparing to hop off from here to the United States in his monoplane at 7 o'clock this morning. Mechanics worked on his plane all night, checking and greasing.

As the plane was being worked on, weather forecasters reported that the weather was none too good for the flight. Grace will also be handicapped in starting by the narrowness of the flying field.

The Los Angeles airman retired at 10 o'clock last night, saying he intended to get a good night's rest. He was a guest of Lindsay Sayre at the Kauai plantation inn.

Grace narrowly escaped wrecking his plane when he landed here after his flight from Honolulu last night. He landed in a grove of low bushes on the banking sands, but managed to keep his machine in an upright position. His plane was undamaged.

AUTOMOBILE RUNS OVER MAN'S FOOT

John Lister, West Sixth street potter, sustained an injury to his right foot shortly after 5 o'clock last evening, when the rear wheel of a Ford automobile, driven by Frank Roberts, passed over the member while he was crossing at the intersection of Sixth and Jefferson streets.

Lister stepped from the curb just as the Roberts car turned the corner. Roberts offered to take him home but Lister walked to his residence, about a block away. He was attended by Dr. Frank R. Harrison.

Roberts reported the accident to the police.

FORESTER VIEWS SITES FOR PARK

The visitors viewed proposed sites along Beaver creek near Smith's Ferry, Grim's bridge, Fredericktown, thence up the north fork through Negley into East Palestine and also up the west fork through Spruceville, West Point and Lisbon. They returned to Wooster last night.

COL. LINDBERGH, FIRST MAN TO BEAT ATLANTIC, HOPS OFF FOR ST. LOUIS

MITCHELL FIELD, N. Y., June 29.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, the first man to fly from the United States to the European continent, hopped off from here at 10:45 this morning for St. Louis.

Lindbergh is making the trip in an army pursuit plane, his own "Spirit of St. Louis" in which he blazed the air trail across the Atlantic now being in the mid-western city after which it was named. The flying colonel will stop but once, at Columbus, to refuel.

Passes Over Newport.

Three thousand persons, most of them women, who had stood in the rain waiting to see the take-off, cheered as the plane shot along the runway and up into the air. The rain had stopped at take-off time, however.

At 6 o'clock, first word from the "America" came back by radio to the hangar here. It was signed by Noville, the radio expert aboard, and said:

"Everything going fine."

The "America" passed over Newport, R. I., according to a flight bulletin issued at the hangar here. It was signed by Grover A. Whalen, vice-president of the America Tranc-oceanic company, backers of the flight. Whalen is at the receiving end of the wire here. The message said:

"Radio messages received through the Independent wireless from the steamships Homeric and Corinthia, state that they have picked up the automatic call of the "America" at 6:34 a. m. The approximte position of the "America" at that tme was over Newport, R. I., indicating that she is traveling between 95 and 100 miles an hour."

Flying 108 Miles An Hour.

The "America" passed Cape Cod at 7:22 a. m., according to a later wireless from the ship to the hangar. The message said:

(Signed) BYRD.

On the basis of that message it was estimated that the "America" was flying at the rate of 108 miles an hour.

Shortly afterward a message was reecived through the Radio Corporation of America from the steam ship Naiden, saying:

"Commander Byrd passed over at 7:25. Latitude 42.14 north longitude 70:07 west.

(Signed) "CAPTAIN.

Extra Gasoline Causing Trouble.

Commander Byrd sent a wireless, timed 7:41 a. m. in which he reported:

"Half way between Cape Cod and Yarmouth. Out of sight of land. Weather clearing slightly. Extra cans gasoline causing trouble with compass. Hope they will not. They can be thrown overboard."

The SS Stavengerfjord picked up a message shortly after 8 o'clock from the "America," indicating her position was 70 miles northeast of Cape Cod.

Message at 9:55 A. M.

At 9:55 a. m. a message came from Providence wirless station that the "America" had wirelessed: "Please ask stations to stand by. I am going to pump gas."

The message was signed by Noville.

Grover A. Whalen, vice-president of the American Trans-Oceanic company, explained that such a message was expected as it would be impossible for Noville to operate the radio while pumping gas from the extra cans carried to the main tanks, as it is a hand process.

Wears Naval Officer's Cap.

Richard E. Byrd's last words before leaving were addressed to T. Harold Kinkade, motor expert, who tuned up the three whirlwind motors of the America just before the hop-off. Byrd said:

"Good work, Doc."

Byrd was attired in a naval officer's cap with gilt braid, a dark gray windbreaker which covered a khaki shirt. He was smiling and genial to the last. He was absolutely self-possessed, this man who once had the temerity to fly over the North Pole.

"The weather isn't any too good," said Byrd as he left. "We won't have the winds with us that Lindbergh and Chamberlin had, but we will make the most of conditions, I hope."

Acosta in Civilian Clothes.

Acosta was dressed in a gray suit of civilian clothes. He wore a helmet.

Noville started off minus his coat. He wore a tan shirt, the tan trousers of a naval aviator's uniform and a helmet that made him look like a football player. He is a stocky, powerfully built man, with the rugged face of a pugilist.

The blonde, blue-eyed, ruddy-faced Balchen wore a plaid shirt and dark trousers. He was hatless when he entered the plane. He was all smiles. For days he had but one worry, that something might come up to prevent his going. He is to be the relief pilot and navigator, taking turns for both Acosta and Byrd.

All four had a few hours' sleep yesterday, but none of them slept last night.

The decision to hop off had come as a surprise to all the flyers, except Byrd.

The commander sent word to them shortly before 2 o'clock this morning to be prepared to hop at dawn. The word was sent to the Garden City hotel, where the flyers and newspapermen were stopping, and soon the hotel was in a turmoil. Reporters and photographers, upwards of 50, dashed to the hangar.

Noville and Acosta Say Good Byes.

"I'm thrilled—thrilled all over," she said.

As she was talking a gray-haired man, stooped of shoulders came over to her husband and, putting his arm around him, kissed him. The man was the radio man's father, Otto J. Noville. As Noville left for the "America," a tear or two glistened in Mrs. Noville's eyes and she said simply:

"Goodbye, dear."

That was all.

Mrs. Acosta, meanwhile, was chatting bravely with her husband.

"Goodbye Bert" she said, kissing her big husband, who left her abruptly.

A short time before he had rushed from the hangar where he got the news of the imminence of the hop-off, to the hotel, and tiptoed in to his room, and kissed his two small sons, Bertrand, jr., 4, and Allyn Lee, 3, good-bye.

Balchen is Unmarried.

Mrs. Acosta said she was not the last apprehensive over her husband embarking upon this great adventure.

"He'll make it, I'm sure" she said. "Why should I be afraid. I've seen him taking chances ever since we were married, on the automobile race track and in the air. Really, I think the chances he has taken as a test pilot, going up in new machines, were greater than the chance he is taking in this great monoplane."

Balchen is unmarried and there were no women folks to say goodbye to him. But one woman, Mrs. J. A. Bookhurst, wife of an airplane photographer, presented him with a rosary just before he left.

"I will pray for you and I want you to have this rosary with you," said Mrs. Bockhurst. "It was blessed by the pope."

Balchen thanked her with that modest, winning smile of his. He also wore a little medal pinned to his shirt. He said he was looking forward to seeing his old mother who lives in Oslo, Norway.

Mrs. Byrd came to the hangar just before the takeoff and went to Byrd's office in the rear of the big red building, away from the crowd. They were there together for half an hour. Byrd previously had kissed his three children goodby in their home in Boston.

Says Farewell to Newspapermen.

Byrd emerged from his office to say farewell to his many friends who were waiting for him. The other three flyers, had, meanwhile gone to where the plane was perched on the mound, the glare of eight strong search lights full upon it.

"I'm sorry to have to say goodbyye to you chaps," said the genial Byrd, his blue eyes twinkling, as he shook hands with the newspapermen. "It was a pleasure to have known you, and I hope to see you all again."

He gave the reporters a statement in which he said he hoped "our countrymen will appreciate the fact that my shipmates, Noville, Acosta and Balchen, are flying over the top solely for the progress of aviation to which they are devoting their lives."

He said they realize there is no glory in a non-stop flight to Paris for them and he took occasion to say he was glad that Lindbergh reached Paris first, because Lindbergh "did for the progress of aviation and international good fellowship what we never could even have hoped to do."

Col. Roosevelt Sees Take-Off.

After posing for flashlight pictures, he left for the hangar, the staccato clicking of telegraph instruments beating in his ears.

Several thousand persons had gathered in the darkness in the vicinity of the plane. One of the conspicuous spectators was Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., who stood beside the plane.

The glare of eight flood lights was full upon the plane. Its silver sides and wide gold wings stood out in bold belief against the pitch dark background. It looked like a beautiful prize trophy as it rested upon its dirt mound. Upon its sides could be seen in big red, white and blue letters the word, "America." Beneath the cabin is the word "Peace," with an olive branch running through the letters.

All Well at 1:30 P. M.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, June 29.—A radio message from Commander Richard E. Byrd in his trans-Atlantic plane reporting by inference that everything was all right was received at 1:30 p. m. this afternoon at the hangar here. The message, containing a remembrance to Floyd Bennett, Byrd's pilot in the North Pole flight who was unable to fly this time due to injuries, did not state the exact position of the America but read:

"A message to good old Floyd Bennett. Tell him we miss him like the dickens. Thinking of him."

Approximate location of the America at 1:30 was put at the entrance of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, about 880 miles from New York, between Cape Breton and the southwest corner of Newfoundland, according to Grover Whalen, vice-president of the America Trans-Oceanic company.

Byrd a few minutes later added another dramatic bit of information to the radio sentry post in Roosevelt Field.

"Wire our congratulations to Maitland and his crew," the message read. "We are keeping a sharp lookout for Nungesser. Wind does not help us at half mile mark. Think we are getting some scientific data.

(Signed) "BYRD."

6,031 CHILDREN OF SCHOOL AGE IN DISTRICT

On Enumeration Basis Zone's Population Is 30,000.

REPORT IS MADE

Records Are Collected By Principal A. C. Moore.

School enumeration of the East Liverpool school district, which has just been completed by A. C. Moore, principal of the Sixth street building, totals 6,031, shattering all previous records, Superintendent of Schools C. S. McVay announced today.

This figure is said to be approximately 200 more than the 1926 report. All children between the ages of 5 and 17 years, inclusive, were listed.

Population of the school district figured on the basis of one child to every five persons, is 30,255. The district includes the municipality, Liverpool township and a section of St. Clair township. Most of the Liverpool township population was acquired by the city recently by annexation.

The enumerator was paid five cents for each name listed.

GEN. PATRICK LAUDS FLYERS

Hawaiian Trip Tribute To Preparedness, He Says.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 29.—General Mason Patrick, head of the army air service, made the following statement today when told of the successful culmination of the army's Hawaiian flight:

"I am greatly gratified over this feat of the army aviators who have established air communication with Hawaii.

"Everything was done to safeguard the flyers before their start and the successful completion of the flight is a tribute to the flyers themselves and to the careful preparations made beforehand. Like all other such flights over great distances this means much in an economic and business way, bringing widely separated commercial ports together.

"Pioneers in a new method of transportation are always followed by more practical results of their accomplishments. There is everything to indicate within a short period of time regular air communication will have been established and before many years all regular ports will be linked together by means of air lines."

DR. GUY BENTON'S FUNERAL TODAY

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 29.—Funeral services will be held here today for Dr. Guy Potter Benton, 62, former president of Miami and other universities, who died from sleeping sickness Tuesday night.

Burial will be at Oxford, Ohio.

Trolley Line Chiefs

H. Kelly, Thomas Farrall and L. M. Poole, who agreed to meet the traction officials tonight.

The solons will offer the company a franchise, which, it is understood, calls for the lowering of the car tracks to the street grade. Should the traction line owners decline the proposal, it is probable that the Riverview cemetery entrance will be made the terminus of the line after Thursday midnight, cutting the Maplewood and Park boulevard sections from transportation facilities.

Maplewood Residents Protest.

Franchise for that part of the line north of La Belle avenue, which until recently was outside the corporate limits, expired last December. As a result of the recent annexation, the entire line came within the jurisdiction of the city.

Officials of the company assert that the line beyond the cemetery entrance is a losing proposition. They object to the plan of the lowering of the car tracks on St. Clair avenue and Park Boulevard, claiming that it would be necessary to rebuild the line.

The company recently rearranged schedules by which only every other car runs to the Thompson park entrance. Other cars turn trolleys at Park boulevard on St. Clair avenue.

A delegation of Maplewood residents attended the last night's meeting to protest against the possible abandonment of the line. The company representatives said that a 15-minute schedule could be maintained with two cars instead of three by operating as far as the Riverview cemetery entrance.

Shortage of Workers Handicaps Drive, Leaders Say.

Albert Frosch's Division Sets Pace; Bode's Team First.

Handicapped by a shortage of workers, the Boy Scout committee fell short of their goal by nearly $700 in yesterday's 10-hour campaign to raise $4,000, representing the East Liverpool-Chester-Newell quota in the budget of the Columbiana County council.

Subscriptions and cash contributions reported by the campaign workers following dinner in the banquet hall of the Y. M. C. A. at 6 o'clock last evening showed a total of $3,320.56 of which $1,286.06 was collected by the Division A group, in charge of L. W. Smith, $1,234.50 by Division B, led by Albert W. Frosch, and approximately $800 by the executive committee.

While about 135 workers were enlisted in the campaign not more than 50 actually took part in the drive. Not more than half of the prospective contributors were called upon, it is said.

The district quota in the $6,800 budget of the county organization was $3,600, but an additional $400 was sought in order to take care of campaign expenses and the shrinkage in collections. Persons who were out of the city yesterday will be called upon following their return. The committee expects the quota will be attained within a week.

T. E. Lewis, campaign chairman, who presided at last night's meeting, expressed the thanks of the executive committee to the workers for their assistance and to all those who had contributed.

ALMA MACKALL, 13, STRUCK BY AUTO

Alma Mackall, 13, Island avenue, sustained a scalp laceration when struck by an automobile driven by Wilbert Taylor, Dry Run, at Columbian Park last evening.

The child was playing about the roller skating rink at the upper end of the ball grounds when Taylor, driving a Ford speedster on the old race track course, ran her down. Police claim Taylor abandoned the car and fled.

Taylor, accompanied by Attorney James E. Davis, East End, appeared before Municipal Judge Hanley today. He agreed to dispose of the machine and to pay the child's hospital expenses.

BELFAST, June 29.—Weather reports from south and western Ireland today indicated moderate southwestern winds, prevailing over the eastern Atlantic. This would be favorable to Commander Byrd's flight.

ADENA MINE CLASH OCCURS

Bricks Alleged to Have Been Thrown at Workers

STEUBENVILLE, O., June 29.—The first disturbance since the Pittsburgh Coal company was refused a court injunction several days ago, to restrain striking miners from interfering with operation of their mine near Adena, occurred today when several bricks were hurled at alleged non-union men, according to reports reaching the sheriff's office here.

About two hundred striking miners and their wives gathered at Adena, the report said, while employes of the mine were going through the town on the way to work.

The report stated that R. W. McCausland and Albie Strickler were hit with bricks and injured, and that the brick throwing occurred while deputy sheriffs were in the crowd, but happened so quickly that they were unable to seize the persons responsible.

COLUMBUS, O., June 29.—As the personal representative of Governor Vic Donahey, Col. Robert Haubrich, Ohio national guard, today started for Guernsey and Jefferson counties to inspect conditions in the vicinity of the Kimbolton mine, near Cambridge and the Robyville mine, near Adena.

Officials of the Cleveland Collieries and the Pittsburgh Coal companies, who are endeavoring to operate the Kimbolton and Robyville mines, respectively, on a non-union basis, sent appeals to the governor for state aid, including the services of state militiamen, to prevent striking union miners from interfering with operations of these mines.

Claim was made that strikers sought to intimidate the non-union workers and prevent them from working.

Perfect Take-off for Army Plane.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 29.—With San Francisco far behind and Honolulu, the goal, within striking distance, the giant army Fokker monoplane was roaring over the Pacific ocean early today.

Piloted by Lieut. Lester Maitland and navigated by Lieut. Hegenberger, the monoplane took off from the Oakland municipal airport at 7:08 o'clock yesterday morning.

A few moments later it was droning over the Pacific, its three motors hitting on all cylinders.

The monoplane moved toward its goal with clock-like regularity as the daylight hours passed and the intrepid flyers were more than half way to the goal as dusk enveloped them.

Sighted by Steamer.

The flyers were last sighted yesterday afternoon by the steamer Sonoma. They were 724 miles west of San Francisco. The motors of the Fokker plane were still working perfectly as it passed to the side of the steamer and winged its way toward the setting sun.

At 8:30 o'clock last night, the steamer President Cleveland reported that the plane was communicating with the steamer President Pierce by radio. Lieut. Hegenberger was requesting the Pierce for bearings. When this communication was overheard, the Cleveland was 1,140 miles from San Francisco.

Although the monoplane flew into a mild rain storm in mid-ocean, the weather last night favored the fliers. The skies are still overcast off Honolulu, but the fliers had the advantage of a tail wind during the late hours of last night. Advices received from Honolulu then reported the wind blowing at the rate of 34 miles an hour at a 2,000 foot altitude.

With this wind at their back and the gasoline supply becoming lighter, the army officers were able to increase the speed of the monoplane.

At 1 o'clock this morning no further word had been heard of the plane. But it is thought that it was still careening through space, with victory perched in the cockpit along with the two brave airmen.

Hungry and Want Cigarette.

"I'm hungry," were the first words of Lieut. Hegenberger as he stepped from the cabin of the plane.

"Let's have a cigarette" was the first request of Lieut. Maitland as he stuck his head from the pilot's compartment with a boyish grin.

"They put in coffee and sandwiches, but we couldn't find them," Hegenberger explained.

"Congratulations, my boy," General Edward Lewis, commander of the department of Hawaii, said to Maitland as he climbed from the plane.

"That's fine, thanks," responded Maitland, "but give me a cigarette."

"We had a fine trip," the flyers chorused as officials hung wreaths of flowers about their shoulders and escorted them to the platform for their official welcome.

RADIO BEAMS GUIDE FLYERS OVER PACIFIC

Lieutenants Lester J. Maitland and Albert F. Hegenberger, pilot and navigator of the giant three-motored Fokker entered by the Army in the San Francisco-Honolulu flight, are depending on radio signals to hold them to their course on the ocean hop. Radio signals projected in a direct line from both San Francisco and Paia, in the Hawaiian islands, are heard while the plane remains on its course. If it deviates off-course the signals stop. In the upper photo above is a view of the harbor of Honolulu; and below is a photo showing Lieutenant Hegenberger "shooting" the sun across the plane. Insets are, upper left, Lieutenant Maitland, and below, to the right, Lieutenant Hegenberger.

GRACE READY TO HOP OFF

Los Angeles Man to Fly From Hawaii to California.

KAUAI, H. I., June 29.—Richard Grace, Los Angeles aviator, was preparing to hop off from here to the United States in his monoplane at 7 o'clock this morning. Mechanics worked on his plane all night, checking and greasing.

As the plane was being worked on, weather forecasters reported that the weather was none too good for the flight. Grace will also be handicapped in starting by the narrowness of the flying field.

The Los Angeles airman retired at 10 o'clock last night, saying he intended to get a good night's rest. He was a guest of Lindsay Sayre at the Kauai plantation inn.

Grace narrowly escaped wrecking his plane when he landed here after his flight from Honolulu last night. He landed in a grove of low bushes on the banking sands, but managed to keep his machine in an upright position. His plane was undamaged.

AUTOMOBILE RUNS OVER MAN'S FOOT

John Lister, West Sixth street potter, sustained an injury to his right foot shortly after 5 o'clock last evening, when the rear wheel of a Ford automobile, driven by Frank Roberts, passed over the member while he was crossing at the intersection of Sixth and Jefferson streets.

Lister stepped from the curb just as the Roberts car turned the corner. Roberts offered to take him home but Lister walked to his residence, about a block away. He was attended by Dr. Frank R. Harrison.

Roberts reported the accident to the police.

FORESTER VIEWS SITES FOR PARK

Edmund Secrist and Dr. J. J. Crumbley of the state forester's headquarters, Wooster, conferred with member of the conservation committee of the chamber of commerce yesterday on the proposed establishment of a state forest park in southern Columbiana county.

The visitors viewed proposed sites along Beaver creek near Smith's Ferry, Grim's bridge, Fredericktown, thence up the north fork through Negley into East Palestine and also up the west fork through Sprucevile, West Point and Lisbon. They returned to Wooster last night.

COL. LINDBERGH, FIRST MAN TO BEAT ATLANTIC, HOPS OFF FOR ST. LOUIS

MITCHELL FIELD, N. Y., June 29.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, the first man to fly from the United States to the European continent, hopped off from here at 10:45 this morning for St. Louis.

Lindbergh is making the trip in an army pursuit plane, his own "Spirit of St. Louis" in which he blazed the air trail across the Atlantic now being in the mid-western city after which it was named. The flying colonel will stop but once, at Columbus, to refuel.

impressive dark objects, up there 500 feet in the sky, as they zoomed along at a fast clip.

Passes Over Newport.

Three thousand persons, most of them women, who had stood in the rain waiting to see the take-off, cheered as the plane shot along the runway and up into the air. The rain had stopped at take-off time, however.

At 6 o'clock, first word from the "America" came back by radio to the hangar here. It was signed by Noville, the radio expert aboard, and said:

"Everything going fine."

The "America" passed over Newport, R. I., according to a flight bulletin issued at the hangar here. It was signed by Grover A. Whalen, vice-president of the America Tranc-oceanic company, backers of the flight. Whalen is at the receiving end of the wire here. The message said:

"Radio messages received through the Independent wireless from the steamships Homeric and Corinthia, state that they have picked up the automatic call of the "America" at 6:34 a. m. The approximte position of the "America" at that tme was over Newport, R. I., indicating that she is traveling between 95 and 100 miles an hour."

Flying 108 Miles An Hour.

The "America" passed Cape Cod at 7:22 a. m., according to a later wireless from the ship to the hangar. The message said:

(Signed) BYRD.

On the basis of that message it was estimated that the "America" was flying at the rate of 108 miles an hour.

Shortly afterward a message was received through the Radio Corporation of America from the steam ship Naiden, saying:

"Commander Byrd passed over at 7:25. Latitude 42.14 north longitude 70:07 west.

(Signed) "CAPTAIN.

Extra Gasoline Causing Trouble.

Commander Byrd sent a wireless, timed 7:41 a. m. in which he reported:

"Half way between Cape Cod and Yarmouth. Out of sight of land. Weather clearing slightly. Extra cans gasoline causing trouble with compass. Hope they will not. They can be thrown overboard."

The SS Stavengerfjord picked up a message shortly after 8 o'clock from the "America," indicating her position was 70 miles northeast of Cape Cod.

Message at 9:55 A. M.

At 9:55 a. m. a message came from Providence wirless station that the "America" had wirelessed: "Please ask stations to stand by. I am going to pump gas."

The message was signed by Noville. Grover A. Whalen, vice-president of the American Trans-Oceanic company, explained that such a message was expected as it would be impossible for Noville to operate the radio while pumping gas from the extra cans carried to the main tanks, as it is a hand process.

Wears Naval Officer's Cap.

Richard E. Byrd's last words before leaving were addressed to T. Harold Kinkade, motor expert, who tuned up the three whirlwind motors of the America just before the hop-off. Byrd said:

"Good work, Doc."

Byrd was attired in a naval officer's cap with gilt braid, a dark gray windbreaker which covered a khaki shirt. He was smiling and genial to the last. He was absolutely self-possessed, this man who once had the temerity to fly over the North Pole.

"The weather isn't any too good," said Byrd as he left. "We won't have the winds with us that Lindbergh and Chamberlin had, but we will make the most of conditions, I hope."

Acosta in Civilian Clothes.

Acosta was dressed in a gray suit of civilian clothes. He wore a helmet.

Noville started off minus his coat. He wore a tan shirt, the tan trousers of a naval aviator's uniform and a helmet that made him look like a football player. He is a stocky, powerfully built man, with the rugged face of a pugilist.

The blonde, blue-eyed, ruddy-faced Balchen wore a plaid shirt and dark trousers. He was hatless when he entered the plane. He was all smiles. For days he had but one worry, that something might come up to prevent his going. He is to be the relief pilot and navigator, taking turns for both Acosta and Byrd.

All four had a few hours' sleep yesterday, but none of them slept last night.

The decision to hop off had come as a surprise to all the flyers, except Byrd.

The commander sent word to them shortly before 2 o'clock this morning to be prepared to hop at dawn. The word was sent to the Garden City hotel, where the flyers and newspapermen were stopping, and soon the hotel was in a turmoil. Reporters and photographers, upwards of 50, dashed to the hangar.

Noville and Acosta Say Good Byes.

Mrs. Noville, an attractive, auburn-haired young woman, motored to the hangar with her husband.

"I'm thrilled—thrilled all over," she said.

As she was talking a gray-haired man, stooped of shoulders came over to her husband and, putting his arm around him, kissed him. The man was the radio man's father, Otto J. Noville. As Noville left for the "America," a tear or two glistened in Mrs. Noville's eyes and she said simply:

"Goodbye, dear."

That was all.

Mrs. Acosta, meanwhile, was chatting bravely with her husband.

"Goodbye Bert" she said, kissing her big husband, who left her abruptly.

A short time before he had rushed from the hangar where he got the news of the imminence of the hop-off, to the hotel, and tiptoed in to his room, and kissed his two small sons, Bertrand, jr., 4, and Allyn Lee, 3, good-bye.

Balchen is Unmarried.

Mrs. Acosta said she was not the last apprehensive over her husband embarking upon this great adventure.

"He'll make it, I'm sure" she said. "Why should I be afraid. I've seen him taking chances ever since we were married, on the automobile race track and in the air. Really, I think the chances he has taken as a test pilot, going up in new machines, were greater than the chance he is taking in this great monoplane."

Balchen is unmarried and there were no women folks to say goodbye to him. But one woman, Mrs. J. A. Bookhurst, wife of an airplane photographer, presented him with a rosary just before he left.

"I will pray for you and I want you to have this rosary with you," said Mrs. Bockhurst. "It was blessed by the pope."

Balchen thanked her with that modest, winning smile of his. He also wore a little medal pinned to his shirt. He said he was looking forward to seeing his old mother who lives in Oslo, Norway.

Mrs. Byrd came to the hangar just before the takeoff and went to Byrd's office in the rear of the big red building, away from the crowd. They were there together for half an hour. Byrd previously had kissed his three children goodby in their home in Boston.

Says Farewell to Newspapermen.

Byrd emerged from his office to say farewell to his many friends who were waiting for him. The other three flyers, had, meanwhile gone to where the plane was perched on the mound, the glare of eight strong search lights full upon it.

"I'm sorry to have to say goodbyye to you chaps," said the genial Byrd, his blue eyes twinkling, as he shook hands with the newspapermen. "It was a pleasure to have known you, and I hope to see you all again."

He gave the reporters a statement in which he said he hoped "our countrymen will appreciate the fact that my shipmates, Noville, Acosta and Balchen, are flying over the top solely for the progress of aviation to which they are devoting their lives."

He said they realize there is no glory in a non-stop flight to Paris for them and he took occasion to say he was glad that Lindbergh reached Paris first, because Lindbergh "did for the progress of aviation and international good fellowship what we never could even have hoped to do."

Col. Roosevelt Sees Take-Off.

After posing for flashlight pictures, he left for the hangar, the staccato clicking of telegraph instruments beating in his ears.

Several thousand persons had gathered in the darkness in the vicinity of the plane. One of the conspicuous spectators was Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., who stood beside the plane.

The glare of eight flood lights was full upon the plane. Its silver sides and wide gold wings stood out in bold belief against the pitch dark background. It looked like a beautiful prize trophy as it rested upon its dirt mound. Upon its sides could be seen in big red, white and blue letters the word, "America." Beneath the cabin is the word "Peace," with an olive branch running through the letters.

All Well at 1:30 P. M.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, June 29.—A radio message from Commander Richard E. Byrd in his trans-Atlantic plane reporting by inference that everything was all right was received at 1:30 p. m. this afternoon at the hangar here. The message, containing a remembrance to Floyd Bennett, Byrd's pilot in the North Pole flight who was unable to fly this time due to injuries, did not state the exact position of the America but read:

"A message to good old Floyd Bennett. Tell him we miss him like the dickens. Thinking of him."

Approximate location of the America at 1:30 was put at the entrance of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, about 880 miles from New York, between Cape Breton and the southwest corner of Newfoundland, according to Grover Whalen, vice-president of the America Trans-Oceanic company.

Byrd a few minutes later added another dramatic bit of information to the radio sentry post in Roosevelt Field.

"Wire our congratulations to Maitland and his crew," the message read. "We are keeping a sharp lookout for Nungesser. Wind does not help us at half mile mark. Think we are getting some scientific data.

(Signed) "BYRD."

6,031 CHILDREN OF SCHOOL AGE IN DISTRICT

On Enumeration Basis Zone's Population Is 30,000.

School enumeration of the East Liverpool school district, which has just been completed by A. C. Moore, principal of the Sixth street building, totals 6,031, shattering all previous records, Superintendent of Schools C. S. McVay announced today.

This figure is said to be approximately 200 more than the 1926 report. All children between the ages of 5 and 17 years, inclusive, were listed.

Population of the school district, figured on the basis of one child to every five persons, is 30,255. The district includes the municipality, Liverpool township and a section of St. Clair township. Most of the Liverpool township population was acquired by the city recently by annexation.

The enumerator was paid five cents for each name listed.

GEN. PATRICK LAUDS FLYERS

Hawaiian Trip Tribute To Preparedness, He Says.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 29.—General Mason Patrick, head of the army air service, made the following statement today when told of the successful culmination of the army's Hawaiian flight:

"I am greatly gratified over this feat of the army aviators who have established air communication with Hawaii.

"Everything was done to safeguard the flyers before their start and the successful completion of the flight is a tribute to the flyers themselves and to the careful preparations made beforehand. Like all other such flights over great distances this means much in an economic and business way, bringing widely separated commercial ports together.

"Pioneers in a new method of transportation are always followed by more practical results of their accomplishments. There is everything to indicate within a short period of time regular air communication will have been established and before many years all regular ports will be linked together by means of air lines."

General Patrick declined to comment upon the military significance of the flight.

DR. GUY BENTON'S FUNERAL TODAY

Burial will be at Oxford, Ohio.

H. Kelly, Thomas Farrall and L. M. Poole, who agreed to meet the traction officials tonight.

The solons will offer the company a franchise, which, it is understood, calls for the lowering of the car tracks to the street grade. Should the traction line owners decline the proposal, it is probable that the Riverview cemetery entrance will be made the terminus of the line after Thursday midnight, cutting the Maplewood and Park boulevard sections from transportation facilities.

Maplewood Residents Protest.

Franchise for that part of the line north of La Belle avenue, which until recently was outside the corporate limits, expired last December. As a result of the recent annexation, the entire line came within the jurisdiction of the city.

Officials of the company assert that the line beyond the cemetery entrance is a losing proposition. They object to the plan of the lowering of the car tracks on St. Clair avenue and Park Boulevard, claiming that it would be necessary to rebuild the line.

The company recently rearranged schedules by which only every other car runs to the Thompson park entrance. Other cars turn trolleys at Park boulevard on St. Clair avenue.

A delegation of Maplewood residents attended the last night's meeting to protest against the possible abandonment of the line. The company representatives said that a 15-minute schedule could be maintained with two cars instead of three by operating as far as the Riverview cemetery entrance.

$5,000 DAMAGE CASE APPEALED

Court of Appeals Will Review Action Brought From Salem.

The $5,000 damage action recently tried in common pleas court to a jury in the case of F. J. Harding against the City of Salem, and in which a verdict for the defendant was returned is to be reviewed by the court of appeals, it has been determined by Hart & Koehler of Alliance, counsel for Harding. The bill of exceptions will be prepared and filed with Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine.

As soon as the court announced this decision Hart & Koehler declared their intent to carry the issue to the appellate court, it being declared that a number of questions of law are to be determined by the higher court, all of which will have a direct bearing upon the remaining untried cases wherein the issue is practically identical, and with the same pleadings.

CHANEY SCORES NEW TRIUMPH

The tinsel and glamor of a circus—and the sinister shadows of the underworld—these are the two extremes in Lon Chaney's latest and most startling contribution to the drama of the screen.

"The Unknown," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's newest Chaney vehicle, now at the American theatre, is a thriller, a mystery, and a wonderfully sweet human love story, all in one, with Lon Chaney, master of weird disguises, in what is undoubtedly the strangest role in his career.

Chaney plays an armless sideshow freak, using his feet as his hands in all the ways the human hands can be used- a thing in itself that took months of practice. He throws knives, fires rifles and does other tricks before an audience in his "act"—and, in his private life, eats, drinks, smokes—and even shaves, with his pedal extremities. His facial disguise is amazing—but his uncanny use of his feet, after what would seem an incredibly brief practice, sets this role apart from any he has ever done.

The story is a grim mystery tale, through which, like a golden thread, runs a delicate romance and a remarkable story of sacrifice. Chaney plays an underworld leader, masquerading as a circus freak and working a series of criminal agencies from this strange hiding place. He comes to love Estrellita, the dancer in the circus (played by Joan Craword), and this arouses his jealousy for Malabar, the strong man, a role handled by Norman Kerry.

The resultant complication, and the astounding sacrifice that marks the climax of the tale are as original as they are audacious. Tod Browning, who directed the play, is also its author, and Waldemar Young did the scenario. Browning made huge successes, it will be remembered, of "The Unholy Three" and "The Road to Mandalay" among others, but in this play the Browning-Chaney combination seems to have reached almost the ultimate in effective portrayal of a mystery story.

The production is lavish, especially the circus scenes, with more than a thousand people in them, and actual circus performers doing their strange feats. It is a gripping drama—and one that once seen will never be forgotten.

His facial disguise is amazing—but his uncanny use of his feet, after what would seem an incredibly brief practice, sets this role apart from any he has ever done.

The story is a grim mystery tale, through which, like a golden thread, runs a delicate romance and a remarkable story of sacrifice. Chaney plays an underworld leader, masquerading as a circus freak and working a series of criminal agencies from this strange hiding place. He comes to love Estrellita, the dancer in the circus (played by Joan Craword), and this arouses his jealousy for Malabar, the strong man, a role handled by Norman Kerry.

The resultant complication, and the astounding sacrifice that marks the climax of the tale are as original as they are audacious. Tod Browning, who directed the play, is also its author, and Waldemar Young did the scenario. Browning made huge successes, it will be remembered, of "The Unholy Three" and "The Road to Mandalay" among others, but in this play the Browning-Chaney combination seems to have reached almost the ultimate in effective portrayal of a mystery story.

The production is lavish, especially the circus scenes, with more than a thousand people in them, and actual circus performers doing their strange feats. It is a gripping drama—and one that once seen will never be forgotten.

Former Weirton Steel Worker Gets Damages

John Hommell, of Zalia, Awarded $26,666.66 by Jury in Circuit Court Against Construction Company for Personal Injuries.

John Hommell, of Zalia, O., formerly employed by the Weirton Steel company, was awarded a verdict of $26,666.66 by a jury yesterday in circuit court at New Cumberland against the Anderson Construction company of Buffalo, N. Y., for injuries received while engaged in construction work of the new boiler house at the Weirton mill. The amount was the highest ever awarded in a suit for personal damages in Hancock county.

Hommell sought $35,000 for injuries sustained last February when a brick fell from the top of a building striking him on the head, permanently disabling him. The jury deliberated less than an hour before arriving at a verdict.

The plaintiff was represented by the law firm of Hoffman and Hart, while the defendant company was represented by Attorneys W. W. Imgram and W. James Cummings, Wheeling.

TRIPPETTI FREED ON TWO CHARGES

Francesco Trippetti, alleged robber who was indicted by the Brooke county grand jury or two felony charges, was acquitted yesterday of both charges when the Brooke county circuit court returned a verdict of "not guilty" after 15 minutes deliberation.

While not generally known, Trippetti is expected to be taken to the Ohio county jail to await arraignment on a similar charge for an alleged attempt to rob a home in Warwood on the morning of last Thanksgiving day. Trippetti was seriously injured and his companion, Alex Cozzi, was instantly killed when they were caught in the home by its occupants.

GRADE CROSSINGS TO BE ELIMINATED

Samuel Eckles, chief engineer of the Pennsylvania department of highways, announced yesterday that an agreement had been reached between the county of Allegheny, the township of Finley, the Montour Railroad company and his department for the establishment of the line of highway route No. 538, at Imperial, which would eliminate two grade crossings at that point. This route when completed will be the last link in the Lincoln highway throughout Pennsylvania.

The proposed route passes along the eastern edge of the village, crossing below the grade of the Montour railroad track at a point about 1,000 feet south of Imperial station. The plan contemplates the closing of the present route crossing at Imperial station and the closing of the grade crossing about 800 feet south thereof. A hearing will be held before the Public Service Commission July 14.

The expense involved in the proposed change would be borne jointly by the Montour Railroad company, department of highways and the county of Allegheny.

Grand Parade Will Follow Business Session Today.

CLEVELAND, June 29.—This city is playing host to approximately 50,000 visitors to the thirty-eighth convention of the mystic order of veiled prophets of the enchanted realm.

From north, east, south and west they came and were still coming today. The streets are running riot with flaming tasseled fezzes, and avri-colored trousers, of the baggy, oriental style. Drill teams, bands and glee clubs have captured the city.

Coming by special train from Tennessess, and Illinois; from New York and Arizona—from all over the nation, the grotto members march through the streets, group by group to their billets. Each group had its band which played its own particular selections. FEZ IN GLORY

Grand Parade Will Follow Business Session Today.

CLEVELAND, June 29.—This city is playing host to approximately 50,000 visitors to the thirty-eighth convention of the mystic order of veiled prophets of the enchanted realm.

From north, east, south and west they came and were still coming today. The streets are running riot with flaming tasseled fezzes, and avri-colored trousers, of the baggy, oriental style. Drill teams, bands and glee clubs have captured the city.

Coming by special train from Tennessess, and Illinois; from New York and Arizona—from all over the nation, the grotto members march through the streets, group by group to their billets. Each group had its band which played its own particular selections. The Kentucky delegation invaded the heart of the city, marching to the srtains of "Dixie," while others favored "Ach Du Lieber Augustine," and "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here."

Business sessions were scheduled for 9:30 a. m. today, followed by the grand parade at 1:30 p. m. and 8:30 tonight, the grand monarch's full form ceremonial will be held at Masonic auditorium.

NOW I know why so many friends of mine have been praising Chandler. And I can easily see why Chandler is making such widespread gains in sales, and enjoying such a successful and prosperous year.

For real performance, as well as style and comfort, I nominate Chandler. It ticks off the miles like an 18-jewel watch—and eats up distance at a pace that makes the famous charge of the Light Brigade seem like a slow motion movie!

And I like the way it stays on the job. No sick spells. No whining or whimpering. And the car lubricates itself from end to end the moment you press a plunger with your foot!

Just check up all I'm saying by seeing this car, and driving it yourself. I'm sure you'll like it.

Food Supplies Centralized, Making Marketing Easy for Busy Housewife; Special Values Announced for Last Three Days of Week.

Blazing the way to new standards and values in groceries, meats, household and kitchen supplies, McGeehan's Cash Market may well qualify as a commercial pathfinder behind which people of the East Liverpool district may reach out and attain greater measures of service, satisfaction and savings.

Housewives are finding it easier, at McGeehan's, to fill the family market basket than ever before and a pleausre to deal with a business establishment where courtesy and helpful service are considered of paramount importance in the day's transactions.

Clarence McGeehan, head of the organization, has operated the present grocery and meat market at 133 East Sixth street for a period of approximately three years.

For three and one-half years prior to that McGeehan conducted a meat business in the market house in St. Clair avenue.

Feeling the necessity for expansion, McGeehan went into the quarters he now occupies and added an up-to-date line of groceries, vegetables, seasonable fruits and other requisites of the well equipped shop.

Centralization of food supplies, which features the McGeehan service, enables the person who does the family marketing to satisfy his needs without time-taking jumps from one place to another. Here may be obtained practically anything in the grocery line, coffees, cereals, canned goods, condiments, bottled fruits, pickles, etc., fresh green vegetables, fresh fruits in season, and the markeier also always has a wide selection of meats, handled by an experienced butcher.

But, to get down to brass tacks, prices will probably tell the story with more effect than mere description.

Beginning Thursday and continuing until the end of the week, McGeehan's will sell Armour, Rosebud, Puritan and Morrell's Pride ham, and sugar cured bacon at twenty-five cents a pound, a considerable reduction from the regular price.

A quarter, in fact, will buy a lot of value during the week-end special sale at McGeehan's.

In addition to the meats, there will be Armour's Veribest Pineapple, canned, Armour's peaches, canned, each at twenty-five cents, and Kellogg's Corn Flakes and Post Toasties at three boxes for twenty-five cents. For the same amount of money, the buyer can get two boxes of Virginia Sweet Pancake flour.

For saving and quality it will be hard to equal a special sale on canned corn, peas and tomatoes—six cans of these stable articles for fifty-nine cents, while exceptional values in coffees are also listed. Beechnut, Lipton's, Karavan, Fort Pitt, White House and Glendora brands will sell at fifty-five cents; Royal, Golden Cup, Golden Urn and Clover Farm at fifty; Our Own Brand, loose, at forty-eight, (two pounds for ninety-eight, with a pound of sugar free); Red and White and Green Circle for forty-three. Ry-Crust health bread will sell for only thirty-five cents.

And coming back to the quarter again, a special value in Armour's grape juice is available at this special price.

FIVE FREIGHT CARS DEMOLISHED IN PENNSY WRECK

TRAIN SERVICE HIT BY CRASH NEAR IRONDALE

FLANGE BREAKS

Loaded Gondola, Derailed, Sideswipes String of Empties.

Five box cars, all empty, were practically demolished and approximately 150 feet of track on the main line of the Cleveland & Pittsburgh division of the Pennsylvania railroad was torn up in a freight wreck yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock between Cream City and Irondale. No one was hurt.

Two passenger trains, No. 233, from Pittsburgh to Cleveland, due out of Wellsville at 3:40, and No. 232, from Cleveland to Pittsburgh, due here at 6:25, were delayed several hours as a result of the tie-up.

The break, it is said, occurred on a wheel of a car in about the middle of a string of gondolas, eastbound, laden with pig iron.

On the westbound track was a string of box cars, empty. The westbound train was motionless at the time or the resultant damage, it is believed, might have been greater.

The Wellsville wreck crew took charge of the situation a short time later, assisted by a New York Central crew.

The wreckers made almost record time, it is said, in cleaning off the tracks and restoring traffic conditions to normal.

FILES SUIT FOR FORECLOSURE

Suit to recover $90 on a note and secured by deed given April 12, 1926, by Harry C. Reed and Teresa Reed, has been filed in common pleas court by Michael K. Duty, of Wellsville, through his counsel, J. B. O'Grady, of Cleveland.

ONE clergyman, last Sunday, said fundamentalists, believing, literally, every word in the Bible, and modernists, who think there may be something in science developed by human intelligence, can never possibly agree. Fundamentalists and modernists must stay apart.

The question presumably will not be settled until the day of judgment.

To some it seems wicked to suggest that there was no lake in the Garden of Eden big and cold enough to provide comfortable swimming room for whales 100 feet long. Others believe that God, having created man with thinking power and animals with capacity for change, left it to them to develop the earth and the creatures on it.

TRAIN SERVICE HIT BY CRASH NEAR IRONDALE

FLANGE BREAKS

Loaded Gondola, Derailed, Sideswipes String of Empties.

Five box cars, all empty, were practically demolished and approximately 150 feet of track on the main line of the Cleveland & Pittsburgh division of the Pennsylvania railroad was torn up in a freight wreck yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock between Cream City and Irondale. No one was hurt.

Two passenger trains, No. 233, from Pittsburgh to Cleveland, due out of Wellsville at 3:40, and No. 232, from Cleveland to Pittsburgh, due here at 6:25, were delayed several hours as a result of the tie-up.

The break, it is said, occurred on a wheel of a car in about the middle of a string of gondolas, eastbound, laden with pig iron.

On the westbound track was a string of box cars, empty. The westbound train was motionless at the time or the resultant damage, it is believed, might have been greater.

The Wellsville wreck crew took charge of the situation a short time later, assisted by a New York Central crew.

The wreckers made almost record time, it is said, in cleaning off the tracks and restoring traffic conditions to normal.

FIVE FREIGHT CARS DEMOLISHED IN PENNSY WRECK

TRAIN SERVICE HIT BY CRASH NEAR IRONDALE

FLANGE BREAKS

Loaded Gondola, Derailed, Sideswipes String of Empties.

Five box cars, all empty, were practically demolished and approximately 150 feet of track on the main line of the Cleveland & Pittsburgh division of the Pennsylvania railroad was torn up in a freight wreck yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock between Cream City and Irondale. No one was hurt.

Two passenger trains, No. 233, from Pittsburgh to Cleveland, due out of Wellsville at 3:40, and No. 232, from Cleveland to Pittsburgh, due here at 6:25, were delayed several hours as a result of the tie-up.

The break, it is said, occurred on a wheel of a car in about the middle of a string of gondolas, eastbound, laden with pig iron.

On the westbound track was a string of box cars, empty. The westbound train was motionless at the time or the resultant damage, it is believed, might have been greater.

The Wellsville wreck crew took charge of the situation a short time later, assisted by a New York Central crew.

The wreckers made almost record time, it is said, in cleaning off the tracks and restoring traffic conditions to normal.

The deed was on four lots in Arcadia addition, Wellsville, and was to be null and void in the event the note was paid in full at the rate of $3 per month and interest at 6 per cent. Inasmuch as three payments have been defaulted, foreclosure is now sought by the plaintiff.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, June 29.—The industrial stocks felt the weight of selling pressure at the beginning of trading today, and prices in most of the active sections of the market turned irregularly downward. Baldwin's 7-point decline to 219 in the first period reflected the announced reduction in operations to 10 per cent of capacity of the company's plans. Money market conditions were also favorable to the bears.

Prospects of an early decision in the Chesapeake & Ohio-Nickle Plate consolidation helped to steady the railroad stocks and offerings of the better grade of rails were light. Car loadings in the week of June 18 were 11,954 less than in the preceding wee and 20,292 less than the corresponding week of last year. Crude oil production set a new high record at 2,510,000 barrels daily last week. The over-production is becoming a heavy burden as the season progresses.

Stocks of the motor, copper, steel, equipment and specialty companies swung into a sharp downward movement near the end of the first hour. Losses of 1 to 3 points were registered in a wide range of active shares, including General Motors, Houston Oil, International Nickel, Vivaudou and Bush Terminal. Numerous rallies won back a portion of the losses, but the general trend of the market was downward in fairly heavy trading.

Commodity markets were generally steady, with wheat prices unchanged at the opening, corn down about a cent, cotton up 4 or 5 points, coffee down 3 to 5, raw sugar firm. Call money renewals were unchanged at 5 per cent.

ONE clergyman, last Sunday, said fundamentalists, believing, literally, every word in the Bible, and modernists, who think there may be something in science developed by human intelligence, can never possibly agree. Fundamentalists and modernists must stay apart.

The question presumably will not be settled until the day of judgment.

To some it seems wicked to suggest that there was no lake in the Garden of Eden big and cold enough to provide comfortable swimming room for whales 100 feet long. Others believe that God, having created man with thinking power and animals with capacity for change, left it to them to develop the earth and the creatures on it.

Yanks, 10-Games Ahead, Appear To Have Pennant Bagged

By Les Conklin.

NEW YORK, June 29.—The American League race appears to be "in the bag" for the New York Yankees, who are in front by ten games today. They squelched the Athletics again yesterday, 9 to 8, the Mackmen barely failing to tie the score in a sensational ninth-inning rally in which they pounded Shocker, Moore and Pennock for eight runs. The victory evened the series.

Lou Gehrig's 100th hit of the year was his 23rd homer and he needs only one more to tie the injured Ruth.

Pitching honors of the day went to General Alvin Crowder of the Senators, who held the Red Sox to two hits and drove in the winning runs with a double. The score was 4 to 0 and marked Boston's tenth straight defeat.

Lena Blackburne, a star with the White Sox a dozen years ago and now a coach, appeared as a pinch hitter against Cleveland, driving in the tying run in the ninth and scoring the winning tally. Score, 8 to 7.

After staking the Cardinals to a five-run lead, the Pirates beat them out, 9 to 8, by sheer hitting power, and increased their lead to 1 1-2 games. Eight pitchers were used.

With Rixey on the mound, the Reds polished off th eCubs, 8 to 1. Outfielder Zitzmann played at shortstop for Cincy in place of Paul Wanninger, who has been returned to St. Paul.

The speeding Tigers took both twin of a twin bill from the Browns, 9 to 3 and 6 to 3. Heilman pounded out five hits for twelve bases.

The Robins and Braves were idle.

PRINTERS DOWN FURNITURES, 7-6

A ninth inning rally that netted two runs enabled the Review-Tribune to nose out the National Furnitures, 7 to 6 in a postponed Recreation league game play-off last evening at Klondyke.

Smith, the Printers' moundsman, let the Furnitures down with seven safeties, while the winners collected 12. While the Furnitures' infield played great ball, the lethargic movements of the outgardners handicapped their efforts.

GOLF CHAMP HAS NARROW SQUEAK

The Youngstown star had a narrow escape in the first round Tuesday when Mrs. E. T. Nicholas, Cleveland gave her a hard battle and was prevented from eliminating the champ only by missing a four foot putt at the seventeenth hole. The match required an extra hole where Miss Fordyce registered a birdie four to win. Mrs. Nicholas made birdies on the thirteenth and sixteenth holes after taking ten strokes on the eleventh.

Sets New Swim Record.

James, New Turk-Nash Twirler, Allows Two Hits.

In record time, but one hour and six minutes being necessary to complete the game, Turk-Nash blanked K. T. K at Columbian park, 3 to 0, last evening. Superior pitching by both clubs made possible the speedy performance.

But one error marred the game, and it was excusable. J. Watson unintentionally got in McMath's way at short in the seventh, causing him to fumble A. O'Brosky's drive. But the miscue did no harm since Merchant and Kinsey, following him, went out in order.

James, Turk-Nash's new twirler, made good from the start. Utilizing a side arm, low delivery, he fanned ten opposing batsmen and allowed two hits.

A. Bayley doubled to middle over second. McConnell sacrificed, W. O'Brosky to Merchant. L. McMath went out the same way, A. Bayley going to third from where he finished on E. Bayley's single over second. Schneidmiller grounded to Merchant.

Woods singled to right at the outset of the seventh and went to third on J. Watson's slashing double to left. Springer sent a long fly to Witherow, Woods scoring. James went out, J. O'Brosky to Merchant and J. Watson tallied. A. Bayley was hit and stole second, but Simcox then threw out McConnell at first.

Brown Student Favorite.

GARDEN CITY, N. For the first double round Mackenzie had a score of 152, one stroke ahead of Lester Bolstad of the University of Minnesota and Cornelius A. McGuire of Lafayette.

Jack's Mates Forced To Wear Chest Pads

Wind Bags Save Wear and Tear On Sparring Partners' Ribs.

By Sid Mercer.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, N. Y., June 29.—Leo Flynn, in charge of Jack Dempsey's training camp here, equipped the former heavyweight champion's sparring partners with baseball chest protectors today. Flynn doesn't want to be hiring new sparring partners every day, so the middleweights and welterweights who are working with Dempsey will wear wind pads that can be blown up to soften Jack's jolts to the body.

For his second day of boxing Dempsey lengthened the workout to four rounds with the gloves and three on the punching bags. Although he warmed up slowly Dempsey brought a wicked punch into play in the first round when he doubled up Carl Carter with heavy lefts to the stomach. Carter worked only one round but was so badly winded that he had to sit down to take off his gloves.

Martin Burke then speeded Dempsey up for another round and the big fellow was going good when he faced Allentown Joe Gans. Against Gans he stayed in close and hit short, light punches.

Jimmy McMullin, middleweight, stepped the fourth round and was badly used up in three minutes of fast exchanges. A left to the body and a short right to the head almost dropped McMullin and Dempsey eased up toward the finish.

WELTERS BATTLE THURSDAY NIGHT

LONDON, June 29. — London was "tight mad" today on the eve of the bout here tomorrow night between Mickey Walker, world's middleweight champion, and Tommy Milligan, of Scotland. A huge throng of Milligan's supporters, playing bagpipes and singing Scotch airs, mobbed the challenger upon his arrival here from Glasglow and Milligan had to be rescued by police to escape injury.

Hundreds of Americans here plan to be at the ringside to support Walker. Both fighters were confident of victory.

By Les Conklin.

NEW YORK, June 29.—The American League race appears to be "in the bag" for the New York Yankees, who are in front by ten games today. They squelched the Athletics again yesterday, 9 to 8, the Mackmen barely failing to tie the score in a sensational ninth-inning rally in which they pounded Shocker, Moore and Pennock for eight runs. The victory evened the series.

Lou Gehrig's 100th hit of the year was his 23rd homer and he needs only one more to tie the injured Ruth.

Pitching honors of the day went to General Alvin Crowder of the Senators, who held the Red Sox to two hits and drove in the winning runs with a double. The score was 4 to 0 and marked Boston's tenth straight defeat.

Lena Blackburne, a star with the White Sox a dozen years ago and now a coach, appeared as a pinch hitter against Cleveland, driving in the tying run in the ninth and scoring the winning tally. Score, 8 to 7.

After staking the Cardinals to a five-run lead, the Pirates beat them out, 9 to 8, by sheer hitting power, and increased their lead to 1 1-2 games. Eight pitchers were used.

With Rixey on the mound, the Reds polished off th eCubs, 8 to 1. Outfielder Zitzmann played at shortstop for Cincy in place of Paul Wanninger, who has been returned to St. Paul.

The speeding Tigers took both twin of a twin bill from the Browns, 9 to 3 and 6 to 3. Heilman pounded out five hits for twelve bases.

PRINTERS DOWN FURNITURES, 7-6

A ninth inning rally that netted two runs enabled the Review-Tribune to nose out the National Furnitures, 7 to 6 in a postponed Recreation league game play-off last evening at Klondyke.

Smith, the Printers' moundsman, let the Furnitures down with seven safeties, while the winners collected 12. While the Furnitures' infield played great ball, the lethargic movements of the outgardners handicapped their efforts.

GOLF CHAMP HAS NARROW SQUEAK

The Youngstown star had a narrow escape in the first round Tuesday when Mrs. E. T. Nicholas, Cleveland gave her a hard battle and was prevented from eliminating the champ only by missing a four foot putt at the seventeenth hole. The match required an extra hole where Miss Fordyce registered a birdie four to win. Mrs. Nicholas made birdies on the thirteenth and sixteenth holes after taking ten strokes on the eleventh.

Sets New Swim Record.

NEW YORK, June 29.—A new world's record for the 150-yard medley swim was on the books today. Eleanor Holm, 13-year-old star of the women's swimming association, covered the distance in 2:07 4-5, lowering the old record by 3½ seconds.

Thursday's Game.

K. T. K. at Laughlin.

Bottles of green glass manufactured in Denmark in the last year totaled more than 20,000,000.

James, New Turk-Nash Twirler, Allows Two Hits.

In record time, but one hour and six minutes being necessary to complete the game, Turk-Nash blanked K. T. K at Columbian park, 3 to 0, last evening. Superior pitching by both clubs made possible the speedy performance.

But one error marred the game, and it was excusable. J. Watson unintentionally got in McMath's way at short in the seventh, causing him to fumble A. O'Brosky's drive. But the miscue did no harm since Merchant and Kinsey, following him, went out in order.

James, Turk-Nash's new twirler, made good from the start. Utilizing a side arm, low delivery, he fanned ten opposing batsmen and allowed two hits.

A. Bayley doubled to middle over second. McConnell sacrificed, W. O'Brosky to Merchant. L. McMath went out the same way, A. Bayley going to third from where he finished on E. Bayley's single over second. Schneidmiller grounded to Merchant.

Woods singled to right at the outset of the seventh and went to third on J. Watson's slashing double to left. Springer sent a long fly to Witherow, Woods scoring. James went out, J. O'Brosky to Merchant and J. Watson tallied. A. Bayley was hit and stole second, but Simcox then threw out McConnell at first.

Brown Student Favorite.

GARDEN CITY, N. Y., June 29. — Roland Mackenzie, of Washington, representing Brown university, was favored to win the qualifying medal in the intercollegiate golf championship as play began here today on the second 36 holes of the two-hole medal competition. For the first double round Mackenzie had a score of 152, one stroke ahead of Lester Bolstad of the University of Minnesota and Cornelius A. McGuire of Lafayette.

Jack's Mates Forced To Wear Chest Pads

By Sid Mercer.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, N. Y., June 29.—Leo Flynn, in charge of Jack Dempsey's training camp here, equipped the former heavyweight champion's sparring partners with baseball chest protectors today. Flynn doesn't want to be hiring new sparring partners every day, so the middleweights and welterweights who are working with Dempsey will wear wind pads that can be blown up to soften Jack's jolts to the body.

For his second day of boxing Dempsey lengthened the workout to four rounds with the gloves and three on the punching bags. Although he warmed up slowly Dempsey brought a wicked punch into play in the first round when he doubled up Carl Carter with heavy lefts to the stomach. Carter worked only one round but was so badly winded that he had to sit down to take off his gloves.

Martin Burke then speeded Dempsey up for another round and the big fellow was going good when he faced Allentown Joe Gans. Against Gans he stayed in close and hit short, light punches.

Jimmy McMullin, middleweight, stepped the fourth round and was badly used up in three minutes of fast exchanges. A left to the body and a short right to the head almost dropped McMullin and Dempsey eased up toward the finish.

WELTERS BATTLE THURSDAY NIGHT

LONDON, June 29. — London was "fight mad" today on the eve of the bout here tomorrow night between Mickey Walker, world's middleweight champion, and Tommy Milligan, of Scotland. A huge throng of Milligan's supporters, playing bagpipes and singing Scotch airs, mobbed the challenger upon his arrival here from Glasglow and Milligan had to be rescued by police to escape injury.

Hundreds of Americans here plan to be at the ringside to support Walker. Both fighters were confident of victory.

WASHINGTON STEWART'S LETTER

By Charles P. Stewart.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—"Lay off of that patronizing attitude quick," is the warning that Coolidge well-wishers who know the corn and wheat belt have rushed to the presidential lodge in the Black Hills wilderness, after reading the last few days' newspapers.

Nobody in Washington has any doubt that the Coolidges are plenty keen enough to realize that they're not in any really out-of-the-way part of the country.

It's quite understood that a lot of frontier stuff has been faked for their entertainment. It's recognized that it's perfectly proper for them to play up to it, but the impression the attendant correspondents are giving is that they are actually fooled by it.

SECRETARY EDWARD T. CLARK of the official party is represented as having "unbent" to the extent of dancing with some of the simple South Dakota dairy maids; Mrs. Coolidge as pouring tea for cowboys in chaps, spurs, cartridge belts and bandana handkerchief neckties; the president as having waived all ceremony to sit on the porch and chin with a rough old well-digger who infests that section—Senator Pete Norbeck.

This is all very well to put in down east newspapers, whose readers think buffalo run wild everywhere the other side of Pittsburgh.

But in the western press!—why, out there it's liable to be seen by folk who know the little dairy maids as sub-debs just back from Vassar and Wellesley, and the cattle punchers as Yale and Harvard alumni, and Pete Norbeck—

Well, Pete won't care. Nevertheless, to anybody who ever saw him in his best bib and tucker at a diplomatic function, he's a funny chap to think of as a horny-handed well-digger.

MANY'S the long year since spike-tails per capita, or ladies' sassy imported frocks, have been any fewer in the Black Hills and thereabouts than in any other neck of the woods.

Everybody who's been west of the Missouri in the last two decades knows this passing well; knows, too, that the guy who gets himself up in a cowboy regalia — the Black Hills ain't a cattle country anyway — or the girl who rigs herself out in a sunbonnet and a calico wrap, undoubtedly got 'em at a costumers; knows likewise that Hot Springs, in the southern "hills," was a swell summer resort a quarter of a century ago.

It may make snappy reading along the Atlantic seaboard, but it's calculated to cause stomach aches among voters on the other side of the divide.

IF you want some genuine Cinderella dope:

Did you notice that Mrs. Harry Wardman of Washington was presented "at court" the other night—at Buck'ng'm Palace — to England's king and queen?

Well, she was.

Not so very long ago it took blue blood as well as simoleons to crash Buck'ng'm Palace gates. A billionaire's wife couldn't have done it if ever her hubby'd been so much as soiled by "trade."

And who's Harry Wardman?

But what was he in his native England, back in the 90's, before he emigrated, to seek his fortune in the new world?

He was a bricklayer. That's what.

By Charles P. Stewart.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—"Lay off o' that patronizing attitude quick," is the warning that Coolidge well-wishers who know the corn and wheat belt have rushed to the presidential lodge in the Black Hills wilderness, after reading the last few days' newspapers.

Nobody in Washington has any doubt that the Coolidges are plenty 'cute enough to realize that they're not in any really out-of-the-way part of the country.

It's quite understood that a lot of frontier stuff has been faked for their entertainment. It's recognized that it's perfectly proper for them to play up to it, but the impression the attendant correspondents are giving is that they are actually fooled by it.

SECRETARY EDWARD T. CLARK of the official party is represented as having "unbent" to the extent of dancing with some of the simple South Dakota dairy maids; Mrs. Coolidge as pouring tea for cowboys in chaps, spurs, cartridge belts and bandana handkerchief neckties; the president as having waived all ceremony to sit on the porch and chin with a rough old well-digger who infests that section—Senator Pete Norbeck.

This is all very well to put in down east newspapers, whose readers think buffalo run wild everywhere the other side of Pittsburgh.

But in the western press!—why, out there it's liable to be seen by folk who know the little dairy maids as sub-debs just back from Vassar and Wellesley, and the cattle punchers as Yale and Harvard alumni, and Pete Norbeck—

Well, Pete won't care. Nevertheless, to anybody who ever saw him in his best bib and tucker at a diplomatic function, he's a funny chap to think of as a horny-handed well-digger.

MANY'S the long year since spike-tails per capita, or ladies' sassy imported frocks, have been any fewer in the Black Hills and thereabouts than in any other neck of the woods.

Everybody who's been west of the Missouri in the last two decades knows this passing well; knows too, that the guy who gets himself up in a cowboy regalia — the Black Hills ain't a cattle country anyway — or the girl who rigs herself out in a sunbonnet and a calico wrap, undoubtedly got 'em at a costumers; knows likewise that Hot Springs, in the southern "hills," was a swell summer resort a quarter of a century ago.

It may make snappy reading along the Atlantic seaboard, but it's calculated to cause stomach aches among voters on the other side of the divide.

IF you want some genuine Cinderella dope:

Did you notice that Mrs. Harry Wardman of Washington was presented "at court" the other night—at Buck'ng'm Palace — to England's king and queen?

Well, she was.

Not so very long ago it took blue blood as well as simoleons to crash Buck'ng'm Palace gates. A billionaire's wife couldn't have done it if ever her hubby'd been so much as soiled by "trade."

And who's Harry Wardman?

But what was he in his native England, back in the 90's, before he emigrated, to seek his fortune in the new world?

He was a bricklayer. That's what.

Today

Protect Children.
Troubling Trotzky.
Real Flying, Aug. 1.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

[The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.]

YESTERDAY the big Pons-Winnecke comet flew by the earth, only 3,500,000 miles away, traveling eighteen and one-half miles per second. That speed, 666,000 miles an hour, is slow compared with the speed of light, which goes 186,000 miles a second.

And light travels slowly compared with thought, which can transplant itself instantaneously to another universe in distant space, 1,000,000 light years away.

The Fourth of July comes soon. Protect your children. Surgeons paint the skin thoroughly with iodine, that it may be absolutely disinfected, all germs on the surface killed before cutting into it. This makes operating safe. No germs go into the wound, with the knife.

When a firecracker explodes in a child's hand, it blows disease germs into the flesh, beyond reach of iodine, and without immediate surgical attendance, serious consequences are probable. Lockjaw is often caused by apparently trifling Fourth of July accidents.

First keep your children away from explosive firecrackers. Teach them to be patriotic without making noise.

Second, if an accident happens, get a doctor and ONE WHO UNDERSTANDS HIS BUSINESS, immediately.

HISTORY repeats itself in Russia. Leaders of the French Revolution were destroyed by other leaders. Robespierre cut off Danton's head. Greater extremists cut off Robespierre's head. Charlotte Corday assassinated Marat, then Napoleon took charge.

In Russia, Trotzky and Zinovieff who would have called themselves "natural rulers" of Russia after Lenin's death, are accused of treason. Their expulsion from office is demanded, and they will be lucky if they only lose their offices, not their heads.

Put not your faith in Princes, still less in any child of a revolution.

BEGINNING on August 1, air passenger service from the Atlantic to the Pacific is promised, the trip to take 30 hours.

First will come a straight line air trip from San Francisco to Chicago,

TWO MOTORISTS TO FACE COURT

Traffic violation charges have been filed in municipal court against James Feehan, 830 Cadmus street, and Fred Moracco, whose street address was not given in the police report.

Feehan is alleged to having driven through a red block in the traffic light at the corner of Mulberry street and Pennsylvania avenue at 7:30 o'clock last evening. Patrolman Leslie Curran said he sounded his whistle but Feehan failed to stop.

Moracco is charged with fast and reckless driving. He was arrested in East End at 8:20 o'clock last night by Patrolman Curran.

Intrepid Maitland and Hegenberger Reach Goal.

Hawaiians Go Wild As Airmen Soar Over Wheeler Field.

HONOLULU, June 29.—The Pacific has been "Lindberghed." Swooping down on Wheeler field at 9:05 a. m., Pacific coast time, Lieutenants Lester Maitland and Albert Hegenberger completed the first non-stop flight between the Pacific coast and the Hawaiian Islands.

26-Hour Journey.

From take-off at 7:08 a. m., Pacific coast time at Oakland Cal., until it landed here, it had taken the big trimotored Fokker army plane 26 hours to negotiate the 2,400 landless miles stretching between the mainland and the islands.

Unescorted by an army patrol which was still out looking for their plane, the big olive green air monster made a pretty landing at Wheeler field. The plane was in excellent condition after its long flight and the aviators said they had followed the radio beacon route most of the way.

A huge crowd which had awaited all night lifted a mighty shout as they circled the field and a salute of welcome was fired by guns at Schofield barracks.

Army and Navy Laud Heroes.

Army, navy and civilian officials were here waiting to grasp the hands of the intrepid aviators as they ended their long aerial journey and added a new chapter to man's conquest of the air.

Governor Wallace Farrington, Mayor Charles Arnold, Admiral John McDonald, Edward Lewis, commander of the department of Hawaii, and brother officers were first to pay their homage to the valor of the two youthful flyers who had established that Hawaii is only a little more than 24 hours from the mainland.

Two batallions of the 21st infantry, seventy military police and fifteen Honolulu motor officers patrolled the fields and handled the crowds.

It was a genuine homecoming for Lieut. Lester Maitland. Seven years ago while stationed here he made many pioneer flights about the islands and acquired a host of friends who were on hand to greet him.

COMMANDER BYRD AND TRANS-ATLANTIC SHIP

By James L. Kilgallen.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., June 29.—The "America" was flying over the Island of Scatari, northeast of Nova Scotia, about 5000 feet above sea level, according to a direct message from Commander R. E. Byrd in the trans-Atlantic plane, received at the hangar here at 2:15 o'clock this afternoon.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, Mineola, N. Y., June 29.—Averaging more than 100 miles an hour, the great silver and gold monoplane "America" is today winging its way toward Paris in a non-stop flight from New York. The big three-motored plane which hopped off at 5:24 a. m. was passing over Nova Scotia, some 600 miles away, at 11 o'clock.

Radio messages are being flashed to the hangar here, the last one direct from the ship, received at 8:41 a. m., and signed by Commander Richard E. Byrd, reporting he was out of sight of land and encountering trouble. The message said:

"Half way between Cape Cod and Yarmouth. Out of sight of land. Weather clearing slightly. Extra cans of gasoline causing trouble with compasses. They can be thrown overboard."

Byrd's message was the first indiction of trouble. Later Providence picked up a message by Lieut. G. O. Noville, the radio expert aboard the plane, in which he asked stations to "Please stand by. I am going to pump gas."

Empties Extra Cans of "Gas"

This was interpreted by Grover Whalen, vice-president of the America Trans-Oceanic company, backers of flight, to mean that Noville was transferring the gasoline from the 27 extra cans into the main tank, so that these extra cans could be thrown overboard, thus eliminating the compass trouble.

All of these cans have steel handles. This steel effects the compass needle and puts it out of plumb.

No further word was expected from the "America" for two hours because Noville would be too busy with his job to take time to send radio dispatches back to the hangar here.

The "America" is making about the same time as Charles A. Lindbergh did in the "Spirit of St. Louis" which averaged about 108 miles an hour in its flight to Paris.

Look Like Condors.

Just at the break of dawn, the "America" roared for more than a half mile down a grassy runway, lifted beautifully and took off on the third trans-Atlantic flight this year. Besides Byrd, and Noville, the plane carried Bert [illegible] Lieut. Bernt Balchen.

As the "America" passed back over Roosevelt field, it was followed by an escort of eight planes. They looked like great sailing condors as they swept across the murky sky. They moved evenly and steadily, their motors whirring rhythmatically, with the "America" in the lead. They were

SACCO, VANZETTI GIVEN RESPITE UNTIL AUGUST 10

New Bedford Slayer, Who Confesses, Also Given New Lease.

GOVERNOR ACTS

Men were Doomed to Die For Double Slaying.

BOSTON, June 29.—Governor Alvan T. Fuller today granted a respite to Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, doomed to die for a double slaying.

The two men, whose case has attracted world-wide attention, had been sentenced to go to the electric [illegible] during the week of July 10.

Today the governor, who has been engaged in a detailed review of the celebrated case, placed before the executive council a respite of a month, or until Aug. 10.

The governor also granted a respite to Celestino Madeiros, of New Bedford, convicted of a bank cashier slaying, and who confessed to the crime for which Sacco and Vanzetti were found guilty.

The executive council approved all three respites.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, Long Island, N. Y., June 29. — Where emotion swayed the other flights, cool reason rides in the cockpit with Commander Richard E. Byrd.

Commander Byrd flies for neither. His career is already established. His flight over the North Pole settled his prestige as dean of air explorers. And of capitalization of personal glory he knows nothing.

He is a sportsman of the first water. At the same time he is not foolhardy but of sound scientific mind, which combination makes for a mental slant that rises high above any personal evaluation.

To them, emotionally, the flight seemed anti-climatic. "Why jeopardize prestige when the glory of the first crossing is gone?" they asked.

The Byrd mind was unable to grasp such a question. The reason for the flight—to him—is as simple as it was when the trip was first planned many months ago.

"My main purpose," he said, "is to learn to some extent the quickest and safest air course to Europe." That's all. And in the next moment a word about the South Pole explorations which he will attempt when he gets back. In adventures aeronautical, Byrd's mind moves as fast as his plane. He has been a reasoning adventurer since childhood.

At twelve he had been around the world. And this career was settled as were the careers of his brothers. They were three, Tom, Dick and Harry. One went in for politics and now is governor of Virginia; another went into business and is a leader in his calling, and the third turned explorer.

The family is of the highest caste. Its personal views never enter into the work of another. The commander's wife and children keep themselves in the background. They will not be sailing over to share in the glories of their hero. Come what may, there never is a grumble. During the long tedious weeks of preparation, and the sudden hop-off of Lindbergh, there was nothing but cheer. Then came the wait for Lindy's return. A flight during that time might have robbed the boy of some of his glory.

All this was the thoughtfulness of the pure-bred gentleman.

Finally, the flight. Pour le sport? (For the sport of it?) To a degree. But mainly for the future safety of humanity without thought of personal glory, aggrandizement or danger.

SEEK NEW TRIAL IN SEDITION CASE

George Shaffer, of Pittsburgh, and Henry H. Wilson, of Beaver, attorneys for Pete Muselin, Steve Braddick, Tom Zima, Milan Resitar and Phillip Widovich, who were convicted of sedition in the Beaver court Saturday, yesterday filed a motion for a new trial on behalf of their clients.

The reasons given in support of the motion were that the court had erred in refusing the petition of the defendants to quash the indictment and also erred in refusing to quash the different counts of the indictments.

It is considered likely that if the motion for a new trial is refused by Judge William A. McConnel, the case will be carried to a higher court.

BY MARSHALL D. HALL

CHAPTER FORTY-FOUR.

Another piece was out and lighted. Straight through the wrecked door, in among the guards and the astounded man in the scarlet robe it flew spluttering and hissing, to burst with a crash like the crack of doom.

Larry, his ears stunned and deafened by the infernal noises he had created, saw that he had effectually cleared the way; saw, too, that the apertures in the side walls were free now of guards and attendants of the Eye alike. Calmly, he followed his last dynamite projective through the wrecked door and stepped into a room where four dead men lay.

Ruthlessly he stripped the hooded mask from the face of the scarlet robed form. It was the ancient, wrinkled face of the tall Marabout of Adrar that looked up at him, even as he had suspected it would be. As he gazed on the features, no compassion in his glance, heartlessly cold about the whole thing, the marabout moved slightly, stiffened, then was still, a final toll to the last blast.

With none in sight save dead men Larry acted swiftly. He stripped off his own burnouse, rolled it into a compact ball and tossed it on the remains of the faggot pile, which was again flaring brightly in the fire room. Then he drew the robe from the dead marabout and donned it, fixing, too, the hooded mask over his own face. The changes finished, he picked up the body of the dead holy man and tossed it in a corner, covering it with the bodies of the three guards, hoping none of them would be discovered soon. Somehow, he sensed they would not, since this evidently was a place that was presided over by one marabout at a time. It might be days before the catastrophe to their companion was discovered by the remainder of the group.

He ignored the door that had originally let him into this place, and sought another. Finding one he threw it open and walked into another room, meagerly furnished but containing sufficient of clothing and food to indicate that the robed figure who tended the Eye probably spent most of his time here. He walked across the room to another room and pushed it open. This revealed to him a passageway — one that led downward.

Visioning that here, in all probability, was the marabouts' road from the Temple to the Eye, perhaps, even, the road that would lead him to the plume, he calmly closed the door behind him and started downward.

Nor was he thinking of the dead men he had left behind, nor of the wrecked and shattered fireroom and great door.

Rather, he was saying to himself: "Larry Grenfall, you've been a lucky dog so far, but you've got to go easy on that dynamite. You've only five cubes left, and God knows when you may need it again."

Without hurry, and holding a great, abiding faith in the disguising powers of his scarlet robe, he walked leisurely downward, taking the steps singly until he came to a sloping, smooth-surfaced inclined path. The way was lighted at intervals by the never ending red torches. It came to him that the entire road to the Temple in all probability would be through this tunnel in the mountain that he was traversing.

At the bottom of the passageway Larry found a door, outside of which two men stood with drawn swords. At his approach they salaamed deeply and one of them threw the portal open. He stepped inside, sensing that he was in a vacant outer chamber, or sort of ante-room; probably this was the entrance to an important assembling place of the Marabout Group.

He wondered if he would be able to carry out his guise if he should come suddenly upon any members of the group. Instinctively he shrank and drooped his shoulders until, so nearly as he could judge, he was holding himself about as the dead holy man would have done. Their heights had been about the same and Larry was confident he could mimic the other's thin, somewhat nasal voice that always croaked a little under excitement. With his courage flaming high within him he stepped across the little room and threw aside a heavy, crimson curtain that cut it off across one end.

He was now back in the tribal room, and a gathering of the Marabout Group was underway!

His approach was noticed instantly and figures stirred as he entered. Larry, casting his gaze swiftly about him, saw there were six others present beside himself, and each man was garbed in scarlet robe and hooded mask similar to those he himself was wearing. On the breast of each robe was a symbol, woven in gold thread, and each symbol differed. Something about the marks struck the American as being familiar, and he dropped his eyes until he could see the symbol that graced his own bosom. He heard a voice address him:

"We have waited your coming, Tribe One. The Ordeal, then is finished?"

At that "Tribe One" Larry recognized suddenly the import of the symbols—they were Islamic numerals, and they ran from one to seven. His own was number one. As he realized the meaning of the marks he had a fleeting vision of a tiny replica of a sweet musk balsam flower that he had found in Ben Mansour's chest, each of its seven petals bearing a number. They could mean only one thing — the Seven Tribes of the Berbers.

Here, then, was a marabout for each of the greater Berber tribes; each of these six men who faced him represented a tribe and all were allied in a common cause against France and civilization in Morocco; and this, without a doubt, was the infamous, red-handed Marabout Group, the group that had forsaken its religious teachings and had turned to arms and intrigues. Evidently, he was wearing the robe of a member of this very group, and unless all the signs failed, the dead man had been the leader—for he had been Tribe One!

His voice was calm and thin, slightly nasal, a perfect imitation of the tones of the Marabout of Adrar when he answered the question that had bee nhurled at him:

"The Ordeal, indeed, is finished. He who was el-rogui, the pretender, could not stand against the flames of the Prophet's Eye. His bones bleach even now, for the fire has cooked the flesh from them."

"So may Allah deal with all infidel dogs who serve Spain and oppose the group," said a robe bearing the symbol of Tribe Three.

Larry re-echoed the words and stepped forward, noticing as he did so that the group stood aside, making an aisle down which he was to advance to a pile of cushions that resposed at the head of the piles the now standing men had been uing as couches when he entered. His heart beat rapidly, his pulses on fire, he walked forward steadily, made aware by this act of the marabouts that the Marabout of Adrar had ,indeed, been the leader of these men; therefore Larry, as the Marabout of Adrar, was now the commander or guiding force of those about him. Quietly he took his seat and the others now sat, also.

BILLIE DOVE AT THE STRAND

"Sensation Seekers" Is Screen Bill Today.

One of the most gorgeous fancy dress balls ever staged for a motion picture was filmed for Lois Weber's latest spectacular production "The Sensation Seekers," the Universal-Jewel which will be screened at the Strand theatre beginning today.

Billie Dove, considered the screen's most beautiful woman, and Huntley Gordon, one of its handsomest men, share the starring honors while a supporting cast of unusual merit was corralled for this feature.

For weeks before the ball was given the Universal wardrobe worked feverishly making unusual costumes for the dancers. Among some of the costumes worn by the cast were those of rabbits, oriental dancers, cupids, newspaper headlines, ballet girls and many other sensational garbs too numerous to mention.

An immense ball room set was constructed, perfectly decorated as a country club and peopled with the most charming supernumeraries obtainable—and Hollywood is noted for its pulchritude.

Oue of the most noted orchestras on the West coast was obtained to play the latest dance music and the dancers enjoyed the pleasure of a real frolic.

New Electors Must Register

Men and women who shall attain their majority on or before Tuesday, November 8, date of the general election, can exercise the right of suffrage at the August 9 primaries, when Republican and Democratic nominees for municipal offices will be named, if they register.

Likewise, electors residing in the recently annexed zone in Maplewood and other Northside sections as well as in other parts of the township must enroll in order to qualify for a voice in the selection of the party tickets.

The election board has designated Friday and Saturday, August 5 and 6, as registration days. Registrars will be on duty in the 22 precincts of the city, including the new sub-division on the Northside, to enroll voters and issue transfers to electors who have changed their place of residence since the fall of 1926.

Don't sacrifice the suffrage privilege.

Germany Favored in China

The Germans have got off very easily in the Chinese mix-up. Hardly any of their people have been molested. The turbulent natives seem to have made a special effort to treat the Germans with kindness and respect.

This, a Kansas editor suggests, is not because of any German threats, but precisely the opposite. Germany has had no gunboats on the Chinese rivers, no sailors and marines in Chinese seaports. She has not blustered either militarily or diplomatically.

There may have been no particular virtue in this. Germany is not in position to do much foreign blustering at present. And there have been times when she used the mailed fist in China, far worse than some of the other powers have done in the recent unpleasantness. The matter is merely mentioned now to show at least a remarkable coincidence.

Germany has not used force in China, and German citizens have been well treated, and Germany is being favored in Chinese trade. There is probably a useful lesson in this for other powers.

New Troubles in Ireland

The belief, recently current in this country, that De Valera was no longer a force to be reckoned with in Ireland, proved to have been wrong. His party in the recent national election carried enough parliamentary districts to threaten the present Irish government, and even the existence of the Irish Republic as now constituted.

The Fianna Fail, headed by De Valera, is still a minority party. But there is no clear majority in the parliament, so a new ministry is expected.

What part De Valera and his uncompromising followers, demanding complete independence for Ireland, will take in the new government is not yet certain. They may continue to bar themselves from public office by refusing to take the oath of allegiance to the Irish Republic. In that case, remaining outside, there would be possibility of a new civil war.

The best thing for Ireland, apparently, would be the entrance of the Valera group into the Irish parliament as a minority ever ready to criticise and assert its own principles, but co-operating in the general work of government. That is the way we do things in the United States, where De Valera got his political training.

Young Swimmer

Two 13-year old girls, twins, have been swimming the Hudson river from Albany to New York and making a good record. Their athletic ability and nerve challenge public admiration.

There is less admiration for the judgment of their parents and backers.

There is very serious question whether any 13-year-old children, whether girls or boys, but especially girls, ought to engage in strenuous and exhausting contests of any kind. That is the age for growth. Healthful development may be checked and lasting evils produced by any prolonged strain of physical endurance.

Jewels.

A New York millionaire named Albert Lorsh, who died a year or two ago, had made his fortune in precious stones. In appraising that fortune now, the state tax commission finds that of the total $3,190,000, only $950 is in jewelry. The owner did not care to keep the jewels that passed through his hands. He preferred money, and stocks and bonds representing money.

In India or China the whole fortune might have consisted in a treasure box full of precious stones. But not in America.

Rich men in countries old in civilization but primitive in their finance hoard jewels and gold unproductively, as the only safe liquid form of wealth they are familiar with. America, with a good banking system, regards bank notes and securities as an altogether trustworthy form of treasury, and expresses wealth in dollars and makes those dollars work, thus multiplying her wealth.

A VOICE FROM THE VOID

Once upon a time I was asked what I considered to be the funniest short story in the English language. After the thought I decided on this one:

A group of big leaguers on their spring training trip were marooned by rain one morning so that they could not go to the ball field for practice. They sat under the portico of the Texas hotel where they were quartered and swapped small talk. An admiring ring of villagers surrounded them.

A languid, ragged negro drew near, anchoring himself at the outer edge of the audience. He laughed with loud appreciation at every sally from this or than visiting notable. He had the look about him of one seeking a suitable opportunity to solicit the gift of a small sum from some generous white stranger. But hour after hour passed with no proper opening until the forenoon was spent.

Suddenly the whistle on the canning factory across the street from the hotel let go with a blast and the hands came trooping out bearing their lunch pails.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 29.—Native New Yorkers—and strangely enough there are a number hereabouts—are kicking over the traces. For years they have been nursing, perhaps, a justifiable wrath over the metropolis being taken over by translucent eared galoots from the forks of the creek.

The Irvin Cobbs from Paducah, the Sinclair Lewises from Sauk Center, the Ray Longs from Lebanon and sundry and one gallused hicks have been copping all the Gotham glory too long. It is asserted and deservedly so that a few of the boys and girls reared here are finding a place in the pot.

It is the contention of such that they have been sitting around as inconspicuous as the sewing woman at a house party while apple knockers shine as "typical New Yorkers." They further resent the popular picture of the city boy as a Rollo with curls in a velvet suit.

They claim they have hooked onto the tail end of wagons, swiped seasonable fruit from the green grocer's stall, tripped up benign old gentlemen with pavement ropes nad indulged other youthful peccadillos; the same as the freckle faced pea shooters in the Toothpick Belt.

It is true in a measure that the clod hoppers give Manhattan its sartorial sheen—its savoir faire. They are the boys who court head waiters, wear the spats, lapel gardenias, walking sticks, waspish coats and other fashionable fripperies.

The born New Yorker is sartorially sedate as a rule. He patronizes the tailor who habited his sire and grandsire. And as one of the invading outlanders I am inclined to believe he is less bumptious in his attitude toward the world. He has dignity and much social poise.

Too, he has been surprisingly decent in extending the welcoming hand to the interloper. Far more gracious indeed than the hospitality often extended to the city slicker stranger who casts his lot amid the peaceful purlieus of Main street.

Yet I believe the gotch-eared yap gets more enjoyment out of New York than the smug resident. He has a perennial wonder for its overwhelming bigness, grandeur and worldly charm. The native has been brought up on such sights. They do not thrill.

Speaking of sod business, in a barber shop the other morning one in a wide hat suggesting the pampas clumped into a chair at a manicure girl's table. "Miss," he said a little sheepishly, "just tickle the quick, will you please." He wanted his nails done.

That is indicative of the country boy's first gesture when he comes to town. He goes to the barber shop and tells them "to shoot the works." This countryman going out inquired of the head barber: "Are you the bull barber?" With a confused look, the proprietor bowed his acknowledgement and was presented with a rat tailed stogie.

The hill billies are my people and I like them. It can at least be said that without them New York would not be so much. Had we no red fronted five and ten cent stores in the village we would have no Woolworth Tower in New York. Broadway would have cathedral-like movie halls without the Bijou Dreams along Main street and so on. New York after all does not belong to New Yorkers. It belongs to the world. The country boys contribute more to its progress than the metropolic contributes to the country town by a long shot. There is a disposition among New Yorkers to smile at our provincialism and log cabin origin but so far as my genealogical researches go most of the ancestors of our hoity toity Knickerbocker families wore breeches half soled in leather and either peddled pole-cat skins or slopped hogs for market.

Finally it is my conviction that the country boys have accomplished more here than the home products.

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Increasing Speed Limit.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—Maryland traffic authorities have increased the speed limti for automotive vehicles and for an experimental period at least motorists may hit it up to 40 miles an hour on the fine highways of that state. Heretofore the maximum speed permitted has been 35 miles. The new markers have been placed along the state roads and traffic is moving at a materially accelerated pace in the Cockade state this summer of 1927.

The minimum speed limit of 15 miles an hour in certain places remains the same, nor have the 20-mile and 25-mile limits been moved up to correspond with the increase in the maximum. In a few places the 35-mile markers are still to be found, controlling stretches of roadway where it was not deemed advisable to permit the extra five miles an hour.

This is an experiment that will be watched with keen interest by officials and automobile people generally. Sharp differences of opinion have been expressed by traffic experts as to its wisdom. Some of them contend that highway congestion has made it not only wise but imperative, and say that inasmuch as a 40-mile speed has been tacitly permitted already in many places the legal limit should be advanced accordingly. Anyhow, traffic must be speeded up in some way.

Others insist that 35 miles an hour is the highest speed at which motor vehicles can be operated and kept under control to a degree essential to traffic safety. They admit that where allowed 35 many motorists have been accustomed to drive 40 and even 45 miles an hour, and their violations of the regulations have been winked at by officers unless it was manifestly a case of reckless driving, but they argue that this is the most serious objection to raising the legal limit. Motorists who have been driving 40 and 45 miles an hour and getting away with it, they say, will now step on the gas and go 45 and 50. Given an inch, they will take an ell—a trait in human nature that was discovered several centuries before there was such a thing as a speed or traffic problem, and noted by John Heywood in his "Proverbes" in 1546.

This exceeding the speed limit by a few motorists under the old regulations was not such a serious matter, it is contended, because the great majority of drivers kept well within the law and with the bulk of the traffic moving at 35 miles or less, the 40 and 45-milers could flash in and out and along and rarely jeopardize themselves or others. But with the bulk of the traffic speeded up to 40 miles, the speeders who insist upon going faster than anybody else become a positive menace.

The point is also made that there are many drivers who, conscious of their own limitations or those of their mechanics, never attempted to make more than 25 or 30 miles, and they could no that, or even drop down to 22 or 20, without balling up traffic with the limit at 35 miles. With a 40 mile maximum, however, these drivers will be compelled to increase their rate or get run over or pushed off the road, and the extra speed they will eassy will be just enough to make them and their cars serious traffic dangers—possibly more serious than the speedsters and their machines.

The experts who favor the increased speed limit admit the force of these arguments, but they still insist that the 35-mile limit breeds relatively the same traffic menaces and at the same time makes for congestion on the highways. If they could have their way about it there would be no speed limit. They say that a car may be driven 50 miles an hour and be less of a traffic menace than one driven at half that speed, and that reckless driving is not to be determined by speed, but by speed, plus the manner in which the car is being handled, plus the place and conditions where the speeding is done.

Accordingly, if they had their way motorists would be permitted to drive as fast as they pleased, or as fast as their cars could go, at any time and at any place, but they would be subject to arrest and liable to severe punishment whenever and wherever they drove at such a speed or in such a manner that they were a menace to traffic. Thus a man might be arrested who was going only 20 miles an hour, or even more slowly, in a given situation, while under different conditions he might drive 50 or 60 miles an hour and never hear a traffic officer's whistle or the gruff words, "W'at d'ye think you're doin'—flyin'?"

Make Them Think Twice.

Proponents of this theory of traffic regulation concedes that it would fall down unless violators incurred penalties sufficiently drastic to make them think twice before they acted recklessly once. A heavy fine for a first offense and a jail sentence for a second, they say, should be the minimum punishment, with the revoking of the driver's permit at the discretion of the court. "Treat 'em rough when they act rough" is the course favored.

Manifestly there can be no revoking of a driver's permit in states where operators of motor vehicles are not required to have permits. There are a few states, yet, where such a condition obtains. If those states anybody can drive a car who can start it and keep it moving. He may be blind in one eye and near-sighted in the other. He may not be able to distinguish between a red and a green light. He may not be able to hear a traffic signal or to read a traffic sign, and he may not know anything whatever about traffic regulation. He may be insane. But he may drive a car in city streets or country highways, if he has one, or if one is entrusted to him. That, however is

A great photoplay of the American desert is Henry King's production of "The Winning of Barbara Worth" for Samuel Goldwyn, at the Ceramic theatre. Based on the famous novel of the same name, the motion picture version loses none of the power of the Harold Bell Wright story which thrilled more than ten million readers.

The production is another triumphant success for Mr. King, whose "Stella Dallas," an entirely different type of photoplay, is still casting brilliant reflections on his genius. Masterful touches of supreme directions are evident throughout the desert masterpiece.

The tense and romantic story of the water reclamation of the vast western wastelands is the theme of the picture. It opens with the first tricklings of humanity coming slowly to the desert. It portrays the sufferings, trials and disappointments of the pioneer, and unlike most productions, carries the work of reclamation through to ultimate success, affording, by the way, an interesting and complete education on that great and important work—irrigation.

Ronald Colman, hero of many moving picture ballrooms and heretofore associated largely with drawing room roles, steps forth in a new and delightful portrayal of Willard Holmes, young eastern engineer who comes to the desert to manage the irrigation projects of his foster father. His part calls for strenuous outdoor ability, climaxed by a long desert ride with Abe Lee, western youth, to bring a payroll through bandit-infested country to the struggiing town of Barba, founded by Jefferson Worth, rival of Holmes' foster father.

Vilma Banky, blonde beauty of the screen, cooperates with Colman and a delightful Spanish moon in supplying the love element. A Barabara well worth winning is Vilma, whose radiance in the desert setting inspires young Holmes and Abe Lee, the western lad, to great deeds.

In addition, Miss Banky demonstrates her versatility by playing the mother of the infant Barbara in the prologue, which sets a high pitch for the action which follows—some eighteen years later. The role calls for the maximum of dramatic interpretation, the pathetic mother being a decided contrast to the gay Barbara of later years.

The two stars are supported by a strong cast. Charles Lane creates a strong role as Jefferson Worth, father of the desert country and the man who is the moving spirit of the reclamation work. As Abe Lee, the young westerner who loved, lost, but stilled loved, the work of Gary Cooper, a relative newcomer to the screen, stood out. E J. Ratcliffe, veteran character actor, plays James Greenfield, money-loving eastern capitalist, who financed the building of a great irrigation dam and founded the desert town of Kingston, placing Williard Holmes, his foster son, in charge.

Paul McAllister, as the visionary Seer, the eastern man who came to the desert with dreams of its fertility and who dedicated his enginering skill to the great cause, lived the role in which he was cast.

The comedy element of the production found excellent treatment in the hands of Clye Cook, well-known Australian comedian, who plays Tex, an old desert rat, and Erwin Connelly, as "Pat," his two-fisted Irish partner. Sam Blum also contributed some excellent comedy bits as Blanton, the tool of Greenfield in his shady business operations.

Haskin's Letter

one of the evils that the Hoover committee is seeking to correct by bringing about the adoption of the uniform traffic code, which includes a driver's license law.

It is too early as yet to get any authoritative returns on Maryland's experiment in increasing the speed limit, and even the state police who patrol the highways are not keen to express opinions about it. One officer who was questioned said that he could not see that it had made any great difference in traffic conditions or in the number of accidents.

"But," he said, "I know it's got me tuned up a notch or two higher, and if it has the same effect on automobile drivers I'm doubtin' that it's for the best. Y' know, it's my notion that anything that's runnin' above 35 miles an hour ought to be runnin' on rails, or up in the air, and not on a narrow ribbon of concrete that something else is always usin' the half of, or maybe more."

This same officer said he was not so much concerned about the speeding up of traffic as a result of the new regulation as he was about finding some way to control the motorist who is always trying to pass another car on a hill on a curve, or in a situation where there is traffic coming at him and he must take a chance on swinging out and back into his own lane without hitting any one of three cars—the one he's passing, the one that's coming at him, and the one in front of him if he succeeeds in getting back into his own lane.

"If they're keepin' a place hot for anybody, it ought to be for guys like that," said the cop.

Sublime in conception, illuminating in execution and deeply inspiring and impressive in its assimilation by those viewing it was "The Story Beautiful" as told in pantomine by more than 200 persons for the second and final time at Thompson park last evening. Another large throng witnessed it.

Minus some of the naturally rough edges attending the initial giving of the pageant on the previous evening the ensemble of characters delineated their several parts with an added smoothness that was easily distinguishable.

Throughout the 15 episodes depicted the background, occurrences and concepts of the Scriptural narrative of the Nazarene's life on earth was outstandingly portrayed.

With rare delicacy, the different events, emphasized in human but noiseless movement, were indicated in refreshing musical strains and harmonies which the large accompanying choir, directed by Thomas Wade Lane of Cleveland, and accompanied by Mrs. Lane and Helen Freeman Gigleotti, also of the Forest City.

The choral aid was particularly explanatory and contributing in the episodes of "The Sermon on the Mount," "The Voice in the Wilderness" and "The Trial Before Pilate."

The Lord's Supper was realistically shown amid a subdued combination of lights that made of it an occurrence at once sublime and compelling.

Again the twelve apostles performed notably their roles; once more the triumphal march captivated in its thrilling beauty of exactitude to what must have been the original happening; as before the costumes stood out in their lines of Palestinian reproduction.

All the members of the assisting coterie from the Thomas Wade Lane Studios of Cleveland which directed the pageant went to Meadville also.

Following the Meadville engagement Rachel Travis Beckwith and Helen Freeman Gigliotti, who directed the preliminary work here, will go to Conneaut, Pa., where within ten days another rendition will be given.

Arrangements have been made for the event in Ashtabula, New Philadelphia and Steubenville during the near future. Three states, it is expected, will be permitted to witness the pageant during the summer.

The scenic appurtenances of the production which in soft shadows of the night, tinctured by glowing and subdued lights, made for a mountainous background with usable passes so common in the Holy Land. The setting accordingly was well nigh perfect, the lighting necessary marvelous, the pantomime movements exacting and the musical contribution superior and inspiring.

Immediately following the pageant's conclusion the work of dismantling the properties was begun and carried on far into the night. At its conclusion the large truck and trailer was started for Meadville, Pa., where the pageant will be given Thursday and Friday evenings.

Unkept Hands Spoil Entire Effect

Every woman should have soft, white, youthful hands to complete the picture of daintiness expected of her.

While eating, dancing, playing cards, in fact, whatever you do, your hands are noticed as much as your complexion. You can't neglect them without spoiling the impression you make by being well groomed in every other detail.

The easiest way to keep your hands soft, white and firm is to massage them with the dainty lotion you can make by simply squeezing the juice of two lemons into a bottle of Orchad White, which you can get from your nearest dealer. It clears and refines the skin, making toil-worn and stained hands look like a queen's.

Shortage of Workers Handicaps Drive, Leaders Say.

Albert Frosch's Division Sets Pace; Bode's Team First.

Handicapped by a shortage of workers, the Boy Scout committee fell short of their goal by nearly $700 in yesterday's 10-hour campaign to raise $4,000, representing the East Liverpool-Chester-Newell quota in the budget of the Columbiana County council.

Subscriptions and cash contributions reported by the campaign workers following dinner in the banquet hall of the Y. M. C. A. at 6 o'clock last evening showed a total of $3,320.56 of which $1,286.06 was collected by the Division A group, in charge of L. W. Smith, $1,234.50 by Division B, led by Albert W. Frosch, and approximately $800 by the executive committee.

While about 135 workers were enlisted in the campaign not more than 50 actually took part in the drive. Not more than half of the prospective contributors were called upon, it is said.

The district quota in the $6,800 budget of the county organization was $3,600, but an additional $400 was sought in order to take care of campaign expenses and the shrinkage in collections. Persons who were out of the city yesterday will be called upon following their return. The committee expects the quota will be attained within a week.

T. E. Lewis, campaign chairman, who presided at last night's meeting, expressed the thanks of the executive committee to the workers for their assistance and to all those who had contributed.

ALMA MACKALL, 13, STRUCK BY AUTO

Alma Mackall, 13, Island avenue, sustained a scalp laceration when struck by an automobile driven by Wilbert Taylor, Dry Run, at Columbian Park last evening.

The child was playing about the roller skating rink at the upper end of the ball grounds when Taylor, driving a Ford speedster on the old race track course, ran her down. Police claim Taylor abandoned the car and fled.

Taylor, accompanied by Attorney James E. Davis, East End, appeared before Municipal Judge Hanley today. He agreed to dispose of the machine and to pay the child's hospital expenses.

ADENA MINE CLASH OCCURS

Bricks Alleged to Have Been Thrown at Workers

STEUBENVILLE, O., June 29.—The first disturbance since the Pittsburgh Coal company was refused a court injunction several days ago, to restrain striking miners from interfering with operation of their mine near Adena, occurred today when several bricks were hurled at alleged non-union men, according to reports reaching the sheriff's office here.

About two hundred striking miners and their wives gathered at Adena, the report said, while employes of the mine were going through the town on the way to work.

The report stated that R. W. McCausland and Albie Strickler were hit with bricks and injured, and that the brick throwing occurred while deputy sheriffs were in the crowd, but happened so quickly that they were unable to seize the persons responsible.

COLUMBUS, O., June 29.—As the personal representative of Governor Vic Donahey, Col. Robert Haubrich, Ohio national guard, today started for Guernsey and Jefferson counties to inspect conditions in the vicinity of the Kimbolton mine, near Cambridge and the Robyville mine, near Adena.

Officials of the Cleveland Collieries and the Pittsburgh Coal companies, who are endeavoring to operate the Kimbolton and Robyville mines, respectively, on a non-union basis, sent appeals to the governor for state aid, including the services of state militiamen, to prevent striking union miners from interfering with operations of these mines.

Claim was made that strikers sought to intimidate the non-union workers and prevent them from working.

By ELLIS H. MARTIN.

Perfect Take-off for Army Plane.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 29.—With San Francisco far behind and Honolulu, the goal, within striking distance, the giant army Fokker monoplane was roaring over the Pacific ocean early today.

Piloted by Lieut. Lester Maitland and navigated by Lieut. Hegenberger, the monoplane took off from the Oakland municipal airport at 7:08 o'clock yesterday morning.

A few moments later it was droning over the Pacific, its three motors hitting on all cylinders.

The monoplane moved toward its goal with clock-like regularity as the daylight hours passed and the intrepid flyers were more than half way to the goal as dusk enveloped them.

Sighted by Steamer.

The flyers were last sighted yesterday afternoon by the steamer Sonoma. They were 724 miles west of San Francisco. The motors of the Fokker plane were still working perfectly as it passed to the side of the steamer and winged its way toward the setting sun.

At 8:30 o'clock last night, the steamer President Cleveland reported that the plane was communicating with the steamer President Pierce by radio. Lieut. Hegenberger was requesting the Pierce for bearings. When this communication was overheard, the Cleveland was 1,140 miles from San Francisco.

Although the monoplane flew into a mild rain storm in mid-ocean, the weather last night favored the fliers. The skies are still overcast off Honolulu, but the fliers had the advantage of a tail wind during the late hours of last night. Advices received from Honolulu then reported the wind blowing at the rate of 34 miles an hour at a 2,000 foot altitude.

With this wind at their back and the gasoline supply becoming lighter, the army officers were able to increase the speed of the monoplane.

At 1 o'clock this morning no further word had been heard of the plane. But it is thought that it was still careening through space, with victory perched in the cockpit along with the two brave airmen.

Hungry and Want Cigarette.

"I'm hungry," were the first words of Lieut. Hegenberger as he stepped from the cabin of the plane.

"Let's have a cigarette" was the first request of Lieut. Maitland as he stuck his head from the pilot's compartment with a boyish grin.

"They put in coffee and sandwiches, but we couldn't find them," Hegenberger explained.

"Congratulations, my boy," General Edward Lewis, commander of the department of Hawaii, said to Maitland as he climbed from the plane.

"That's fine, thanks," responded Maitland, "but give me a cigarette."

"We had a fine trip," the flyers chorushed as officials hung wreaths of flowers about their shoulders and escorted them to the platform for their official welcome.

RADIO BEAMS GUIDE FLYERS OVER PACIFIC

Lieutenants Lester J. Maitland and Albert F. Hegenberger, pilot and navigator of the giant three-motored Fokker entered by the Army in the San Francisco-Honolulu flight, are depending on radio signals to hold them to their course on the ocean hop. Radio signals projected in a direct line from both San Francisco and Pala, in the Hawaiian islands, are heard while the plane remains on its course. If it deviates off-course the signals stop. In the upper photo above is a view of the harbor of Honolulu; and below is a photo showing Lieutenant Hegenberger "shooting" the sun across the plane. Insets are, upper left, Lieutenant Maitland, and below, to the right, Lieutenant Hegenberger.

GRACE READY TO HOP OFF

Los Angeles Man to Fly From Hawaii to California.

KAUAI, H. I., June 29.—Richard Grace, Los Angeles aviator, was preparing to hop off from here to the United States in his monoplane at 7 o'clock this morning. Mechanics worked on his plane all night, checking and greasing.

As the plane was being worked on, weather forecasters reported that the weather was none too good for the flight. Grace will also be handicapped in starting by the narrowness of the flying field.

The Los Angeles airman retired at 10 o'clock last night, saying he intended to get a good night's rest. He was a guest of Lindsay Sayre at the Kauai plantation inn.

Grace narrowly escaped wrecking his plane when he landed here after his flight from Honolulu last night. He landed in a grove of low bushes on the banking sands, but managed to keep his machine in an upright position. His plane was undamaged.

AUTOMOBILE RUNS OVER MAN'S FOOT

John Lister, West Sixth street potter, sustained an injury to his right foot shortly after 5 o'clock last evening, when the rear wheel of a Ford automobile, driven by Frank Roberts, passed over the member while he was crossing at the intersection of Sixth and Jefferson streets.

Lister stepped from the curb just as the Roberts car turned the corner. Roberts offered to take him home but Lister walked to his residence, about a block away. He was attended by Dr. Frank R. Harrison.

Roberts reported the accident to the police.

FORESTER VIEWS SITES FOR PARK

The visitors viewed proposed sites along Beaver creek near Smith's Ferry, Grim's bridge, Fredericktown, thence up the north fork through Negley into East Palestine and also up the west fork through Spruceville, West Point and Lisbon. They returned to Wooster last night.

MITCHELL FIELD, N. Y., June 29.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, the first man to fly from the United States to the European continent, hopped off from here at 10:45 this morning for St. Louis.

Lindbergh is making the trip in an army pursuit plane, his own "Spirit of St. Louis" in which he blazed the air trail across the Atlantic now being in the mid-western city after which it was named. The flying colonel will stop but once, at Columbus, to refuel.

impressive dark objects, up there 500 feet in the sky, as they zoomed along at a fast clip.

Passes Over Newport.

Three thousand persons, most of them women, who had stood in the rain waiting to see the take-off, cheered as the plane shot along the runway and up into the air. The rain had stopped at take-off time, however.

At 6 o'clock, first word from the "America" came back by radio to the hangar here. It was signed by Noville, the radio expert aboard, and said:

The "America" passed over Newport, R. I., according to a flight bulletin issued at the hangar here. It was signed by Grover A. Whalen, vice-president of the America Tranc-oceanic company, backers of the flight. Whalen is at the receiving end of the wire here. The message said:

"Radio messages received through the Independent wireless from the steamships Homeric and Corinthia, state that they have picked up the automatic call of the "America" at 6:34 a. m. The approximte position of the "America" at that tme was over Newport, R. I., indicating that she is traveling between 95 and 100 miles an hour."

Flying 108 Miles An Hour.

The "America" passed Cape Cod at 7:22 a. m., according to a later wireless from the ship to the hangar. The message said:

(Signed) BYRD.

On the basis of that message it was estimated that the "America" was flying at the rate of 108 miles an hour.

Shortly afterward a message was received through the Radio Corporation of America from the steam ship Naiden, saying:

(Signed) "CAPTAIN.

Extra Gasoline Causing Trouble.

Commander Byrd sent a wireless, timed 7:41 a. m. in which he reported:

"Half way between Cape Cod and Yarmouth. Out of sight of land. Weather clearing slightly. Extra cans gasoline causing trouble with compass. Hope they will not. They can be thrown overboard."

The SS Stavengerfjord picked up a message shortly after 8 o'clock from the "America," indicating her position was 70 miles northeast of Cape Cod.

Message at 9:55 A. M.

At 9:55 a. m. a message came from Providence wirless station that the "America" had wirelessed: "Please ask stations to stand by. I am going to pump gas."

The message was signed by Noville.

Grover A. Whalen, vice-president of the American Trans-Oceanic company, explained that such a message was expected as it would be impossible for Noville to operate the radio while pumping gas from the extra cans carried to the main tanks, as it is a hand process.

Wears Naval Officer's Cap.

Richard E. Byrd's last words before leaving were addressed to T. Harold Kinkade, motor expert, who tuned up the three whirlwind motors of the America just before the hop-off. Byrd said:

"Good work, Doc."

Byrd was attired in a naval officer's cap with gilt braid, a dark gray windbreaker which covered a khaki shirt. He was smiling and genial to the last. He was absolutely self-possessed, this man who once had the temerity to fly over the North Pole.

"The weather isn't any too good," said Byrd as he left. "We won't have the winds with us that Lindbergh and Chamberlin had, but we will make the most of conditions, I hope."

Acosta in Civilian Clothes.

Acosta was dressed in a gray suit of civilian clothes. He wore a helmet.

Noville started off minus his coat. He wore a tan shirt, the tan trousers of a naval aviator's uniform and a helmet that made him look like a football player. He is a stocky, powerfully built man, with the rugged face of a pugilist.

The blonde, blue-eyed, ruddy-faced Balchen wore a plaid shirt and dark trousers. He was hatless when he entered the plane. He was all smiles. For days he had but one worry, that something might come up to prevent his going. He is to be the relief pilot and navigator, taking turns for both Acosta and Byrd.

All four had a few hours' sleep yesterday, but none of them slept last night.

The decision to hop off had come as a surprise to all the flyers, except Byrd.

The commander sent word to them shortly before 2 o'clock this morning to be prepared to hop at dawn. The word was sent to the Garden City hotel, where the flyers and newspapermen were stopping, and soon the hotel was in a turmoil. Reporters and photographers, upwards of 50, dashed to the hangar.

Noville and Acosta Say Good Byes.

"I'm thrilled—thrilled all over," she said.

As she was talking a gray-haired man, stooped of shoulders came over to her husband and, putting his arm around him, kissed him. The man was the radio man's father, Otto J. Noville. As Noville left for the "America," a tear or two glistened in Mrs. Noville's eyes and she said simply:

"Goodbye, dear."

That was all.

Mrs. Acosta, meanwhile, was chatting bravely with her husband.

"Goodbye Bert" she said, kissing her big husband, who left her abruptly.

A short time before he had rushed from the hangar where he got the news of the imminence of the hop-off, to the hotel, and tiptoed in to his room, and kissed his two small sons, Bertrand, jr., 4, and Allyn Lee, 3, good-bye.

Balchen is Unmarried.

Mrs. Acosta said she was not the last apprehensive over her husband embarking upon this great adventure.

"He'll make it, I'm sure" she said. "Why should I be afraid. I've seen him taking chances ever since we were married, on the automobile race track and in the air. Really, I think the chances he has taken as a test pilot, going up in new machines, were greater than the chance he is taking in this great monoplane."

Balchen is unmarried and there were no women folks to say goodbye to him. But one woman, Mrs. J. A. Bookhurst, wife of an airplane photographer, presented him with a rosary just before he left.

"I will pray for you and I want you to have this rosary with you," said Mrs. Bockhurst. "It was blessed by the pope."

Balchen thanked her with that modest, winning smile of his. He also wore a little medal pinned to his shirt. He said he was looking forward to seeing his old mother who lives in Oslo, Norway.

Mrs. Byrd came to the hangar just before the takeoff and went to Byrd's office in the rear of the big red building, away from the crowd. They were there together for half an hour. Byrd previously had kissed his three children goodby in their home in Boston.

Says Farewell to Newspapermen.

Byrd emerged from his office to say farewell to his many friends who were waiting for him. The other three flyers, had, meanwhile gone to where the plane was perched on the mound, the glare of eight strong search lights full upon it.

"I'm sorry to have to say goodbyye to you chaps," said the genial Byrd, his blue eyes twinkling, as he shook hands with the newspapermen. "It was a pleasure to have known you, and I hope to see you all again."

He gave the reporters a statement in which he said he hoped "our countrymen will appreciate the fact that my shipmates, Noville, Acosta and Balchen, are flying over the top solely for the progress of aviation to which they are devoting their lives."

He said they realize there is no glory in a non-stop flight to Paris for them and he took occasion to say he was glad that Lindbergh reached Paris first, because Lindbergh "did for the progress of aviation and international good fellowship what we never could even have hoped to do."

Col. Roosevelt Sees Take-Off.

Several thousand persons had gathered in the darkness in the vicinity of the plane. One of the conspicuous spectators was Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., who stood beside the plane.

The glare of eight flood lights was full upon the plane. Its silver sides and wide gold wings stood out in bold belief against the pitch dark background. It looked like a beautiful prize trophy as it rested upon its dirt mound. Upon its sides could be seen in big red, white and blue letters the word, "America." Beneath the cabin is the word "Peace," with an olive branch running through the letters.

All Well at 1:30 P. M.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, June 29.—A radio message from Commander Richard E. Byrd in his trans-Atlantic plane reporting by inference that everything was all right was received at 1:30 p. m. this afternoon at the hangar here. The message, containing a remembrance to Floyd Bennett, Byrd's pilot in the North Pole flight who was unable to fly this time due to injuries, did not state the exact position of the America but read:

"A message to good old Floyd Bennett. Tell him we miss him like the dickens. Thinking of him."

Approximate location of the America at 1:30 was put at the entrance of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, about 880 miles from New York, between Cape Breton and the southwest corner of Newfoundland, according to Grover Whalen, vice-president of the America Trans-Oceanic company.

Byrd a few minutes later added another dramatic bit of information to the radio sentry post in Roosevelt Field.

"Wire our congratulations to Maitland and his crew," the message read. "We are keeping a sharp lookout for Nungesser. Wind does not help us at half mile mark. Think we are getting some scientific data.

"CHILLY FLYING," BYRD WIRELESSES

On Enumeration Basis Zone's Population Is 30,000.

REPORT IS MADE

School enumeration of the East Liverpool school district, which has just been completed by A. C. Moore, principal of the Sixth street building, totals 6,031, shattering all previous records, Superintendent of Schools C. S. McVay announced today.

This figure is said to be approximately 200 more than the 1926 report. All children between the ages of 5 and 17 years, inclusive, were listed.

Population of the school district figured on the basis of one child to every five persons, is 30,255. The district includes the municipality, Liverpool township and a section of St. Clair township. Most of the Liverpool township population was acquired by the city recently by annexation.

The enumerator was paid five cents for each name listed.

GEN. PATRICK LAUDS FLYERS

Hawaiian Trip Tribute To Preparedness, He Says.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 29.—General Mason Patrick, head of the army air service, made the following statement today when told of the successful culmination of the army's Hawaiian flight:

"I am greatly gratified over this feat of the army aviators who have established air communication with Hawaii.

"Everything was done to safeguard the flyers before their start and the successful completion of the flight is a tribute to the flyers themselves and to the careful preparations made beforehand. Like all other such flights over great distances this means much in an economic and business way, bringing widely separated commercial ports together.

"Pioneers in a new method of transportation are always followed by more practical results of their accomplishments. There is everything to indicate within a short period of time regular air communication will have been established and before many years all regular ports will be linked together by means of air lines."

DR. GUY BENTON'S FUNERAL TODAY

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 29.—Funeral services will be held here today for Dr. Guy Potter Benton, 62, former president of Miami and other universities, who died from sleeping sickness Tuesday night.

Burial will be at Oxford, Ohio.

Trolley Line Chiefs

H. Kelly, Thomas Farrall and L. M. Poole, who agreed to meet the traction officials tonight.

The solons will offer the company a franchise, which, it is understood, calls for the lowering of the car tracks to the street grade. Should the traction line owners decline the proposal, it is probable that the Riverview cemetery entrance will be made the terminus of the line after Thursday midnight, cutting the Maplewood and Park boulevard sections from transportation facilities.

Maplewood Residents Protest.

Franchise for that part of the line north of La Belle avenue, which until recently was outside the corporate limits, expired last December. As a result of the recent annexation, the entire line came within the jurisdiction of the city.

Officials of the company assert that the line beyond the cemetery entrance is a losing proposition. They object to the plan of the lowering of the car tracks on St. Clair avenue and Park Boulevard, claiming that it would be necessary to rebuild the line.

The company recently rearranged schedules by which only every other car runs to the Thompson park entrance. Other cars turn trolleys at Park boulevard on St. Clair avenue.

A delegation of Maplewood residents attended the last night's meeting to protest against the possible abandonment of the line. The company representatives said that a 15-minute schedule could be maintained with two cars instead of three by operating as far as the Riverview cemetery entrance.

$5,000 DAMAGE CASE APPEALED

Court of Appeals Will Review Action Brought From Salem.

The $5,000 damage action recently tried in common pleas court to a jury in the case of F. J. Harding against the City of Salem, and in which a verdict for the defendant was returned is to be reviewed by the court of appeals, it has been determined by Hart & Koehler of Alliance, counsel for Harding. The bill of exceptions will be prepared and filed with Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine.

In this case, the plaintiff sought damages as a result of the typhoid fever epidemic in Salem some years ago. In addition to the petition filed by the Alliance law firm for Harding, similar petitions were filed for about 20 other clients, all of whom sought similar damage.

The Harding case was the first to go to trial, and had been designated as a test case, the result of the Harding action practically determining the position of all the other damage cases.

A motion for a new trial in common pleas has been overruled by Judge W. F. Lones in No. 1 court, and without argument. As soon as the court announced this decision Hart & Koehler declared their intent to carry the issue to the appellate court, it being declared that a number of questions of law are to be determined by the higher court, all of which will have a direct bearing upon the remaining untried cases wherein the issue is practically identical, and with the same pleadings.

CHANEY SCORES NEW TRIUMPH

The tinsel and glamor of a circus—and the sinister shadows of the underworld—these are the two extremes in Lon Chaney's latest and most startling contribution to the drama of the screen.

"The Unknown," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's newest Chaney vehicle, now at the American theatre, in a thriller, a mystery, and a wonderfully sweet human love story, all in one, with Lon Chaney, master of weird disguises, in what is undoubtedly the strangest role in his career.

Chaney plays an armless sideshow freak, using his feet as his hands in all the ways the human hands can be used- a thing in itself that took months of practice. He throws knives, fires rifles and does other tricks before an audience in his "act"—and, in his private life, eats, drinks, smokes—and even shaves, with his pedal extremities. His facial disguise is amazing—but his uncanny use of his feet, after what would seem an incredibly brief practice, sets this role apart from any he has ever done.

The story is a grim mystery tale, through which, like a golden thread, runs a delicate romance and a remarkable story of sacrifice. Chaney plays an underworld leader, masquerading as a circus freak and working a series of criminal agencies from this strange hiding place. He comes to love Estrellita, the dancer in the circus (played by Joan Crawford), and this arouses his jealousy for Malabar, the strong man, a role handled by Norman Kerry.

The resultant complication, and the astounding sacrifice that marks the climax of the tale are as original as they are audacious. Tod Browning, who directed the play, is also its author, and Waldemar Young did the scenario. Browning made huge successes, it will be remembered, of "The Unholy Three" and "The Road to Mandalay" among others, but in this play the Browning-Chaney combination seems to have reached almost the ultimate in effective portrayal of a mystery story.

The production is lavish, especially the circus scenes, with more than a thousand people in them, and actual circus performers doing their strange feats. It is a gripping drama—and one that once seen will never be forgotten.

Former Weirton Steel Worker Gets Damages

John Hommell, of Zalia, Awarded $26,666.66 by Jury in Circuit Court Against Construction Company for Personal Injuries.

John Hommell, of Zalia, O., formerly employed by the Weirton Steel company, was awarded a verdict of $26,666.66 by a jury yesterday in circuit court at New Cumberland against the Anderson Construction company of Buffalo, N. Y., for injuries received while engaged in construction work of the new boiler house at the Weirton mill. The amount was the highest ever awarded in a suit for personal damages in Hancock county.

Hommell sought $35,000 for injuries sustained last February when a brick fell from the top of a building striking him on the head, permanently disabling him. The jury deliberated less than an hour before arriving at a verdict.

The plaintiff was represented by the law firm of Hoffman and Hart, while the defendant company was represented by Attorneys W. W. Imgram and W. James Cummings, Wheeling.

TRIPPETTI FREED ON TWO CHARGES

Francesco Trippetti, alleged robber who was indicted by the Brooke county grand jury or two felony charges, was acquitted yesterday of both charges when the Brooke county circuit court returned a verdict of "not guilty" after 15 minutes deliberation.

Trippetti was alleged to have been implicated in a series of robberies at Windsor Heights, near here. While not generally known, Trippetti is expected to be taken to the Ohio county jail to await arraignment on a similar charge for an alleged attempt to rob a home in Warwood on the morning of last Thanksgiving day. Trippetti was seriously injured and his companion, Alex Cozzi, was instantly killed when they were caught in the home by its occupants.

GRADE CROSSINGS TO BE ELIMINATED

Samuel Eckles, chief engineer of the Pennsylvania department of highways, announced yesterday that an agreement had been reached between the county of Allegheny, the township of Finley, the Montour Railroad company and his department for the establishment of the line of highway route No. 538, at Imperial, which would eliminate two grade crossings at that point. This route when completed will be the last link in the Lincoln highway throughout Pennsylvania.

The proposed route passes along the eastern edge of the village, crossing below the grade of the Montour railroad track at a point about 1,000 feet south of Imperial station. The plan contemplates the closing of the present route crossing at Imperial station and the closing of the grade crossing about 800 feet south thereof. A hearing will be held before the Public Service Commission July 14.

The expense involved in the proposed change would be borne jointly by the Montour Railroad company, department of highways and the county of Allegheny.

The proposed bridge would have a vehicular clearance of 36 feet for roadway and a six-foot walk.

50,000 ATTEND GROTTO MEET IN CLEVELAND

Forest City Host to Mystic Order of Prophets.

FEZ IN GLORY

Grand Parade Will Follow Business Session Today.

CLEVELAND, June 29.—This city is playing host to approximately 50,000 visitors to the thirty-eighth convention of the mystic order of veiled prophets of the enchanted realm.

From north, east, south and west they came and were still coming today. The streets are running riot with flaming tasseled fezzes, and avri-colored trousers, of the baggy, oriental style. Drill teams, bands and glee clubs have captured the city.

Coming by special train from Tennessess, and Illinois; from New York and Arizona—from all over the nation, the grotto members march through the streets, group by group to their billets. Each group had its band which played its own particular selections. The Kentucky delegation invaded the heart of the city, marching to the srtains of "Dixie," while others favored "Ach Du Lieber Augustine," and "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here."

Business sessions were scheduled for 9:30 a. m. today, followed by the grand parade at 1:30 p. m. and 8:30 tonight, the grand monarch's full form ceremonial will be held at Masonic auditorium.

Food Supplies Centralized, Making Marketing Easy for Busy Housewife; Special Values Announced for Last Three Days of Week.

Blazing the way to new standards and values in groceries, meats, household and kitchen supplies, McGeehan's Cash Market may well qualify as a commercial pathfinder behind which people of the East Liverpool district may reach out and attain greater measures of service, satisfaction and savings.

Housewives are finding it easier, at McGeehan's, to fill the family market basket than ever before and a pleausre to deal with a business establishment where courtesy and helpful service are considered of paramount importance in the day's transactions.

Clarence McGeehan, head of the organization, has operated the present grocery and meat market at 133 East Sixth street for a period of approximately three years.

For three and one-half years prior to that McGeehan conducted a meat business in the market house in St. Clair avenue.

Feeling the necessity for expansion, McGeehan went into the quarters he now occupies and added an up-to-date line of groceries, vegetables, seasonable fruits and other requisites of the well equipped shop.

Centralization of food supplies, which features the McGeehan service, enables the person who does the family marketing to satisfy his needs without time-taking jumps from one place to another. Here may be obtained practically anything in the grocery line, coffees, cereals, canned goods, condiments, bottled fruits, pickles, etc., fresh green vegetables, fresh fruits in season, and the markeier also always has a wide selection of meats, handled by an experienced butcher.

But, to get down to brass tacks, prices will probably tell the story with more effect than mere description.

Beginning Thursday and continuing until the end of the week, McGeehan's will sell Armour, Rosebud, Puritan and Morrell's Pride ham, and sugar cured bacon at twenty-five cents a pound, a considerable reduction from the regular price.

A quarter, in fact, will buy a lot of value during the week-end special sale at McGeehan's.

In addition to the meats, there will be Armour's Veribest Pineapple, canned, Armour's peaches, canned, each at twenty-five cents, and Kellogg's Corn Flakes and Post Toasties at three boxes for twenty-five cents. For the same amount of money, the buyer can get two boxes of Virginia Sweet Pancake flour.

For saving and quality it will be hard to equal a special sale on canned corn, peas and tomatoes—six cans of these stable articles for fifty-nine cents, while exceptional values in coffees are also listed. Beechnut, Lipton's, Karavan, Fort Pitt, White House and Glendora brands will sell at fifty-five cents; Royal, Golden Cup, Golden Urn and Clover Farm at fifty; Our Own Brand, loose, at forty-eight, (two pounds for ninety-eight, with a pound of sugar free); Red and White and Green Circle for forty-three. Ry-Crust health bread will sell for only thirty-five cents.

And coming back to the quarter again, a special value in Armour's grape juice is available at this special price.

FIVE FREIGHT CARS DEMOLISHED IN PENNSY WRECK

TRAIN SERVICE HIT BY CRASH NEAR IRONDALE

FLANGE BREAKS

Loaded Gondola, Derailed, Sideswipes String of Empties.

Five box cars, all empty, were practically demolished and approximately 150 feet of track on the main line of the Cleveland & Pittsburgh division of the Pennsylvania railroad was torn up in a freight wreck yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock between Cream City and Irondale. No one was hurt.

Two passenger trains, No. 233, from Pittsburgh to Cleveland, due out of Wellsville at 3:40, and No. 232, from Cleveland to Pittsburgh, due here at 6:25, were delayed several hours as a result of the tie-up.

The break, it is said, occurred on a wheel of a car in about the middle of a string of gondolas, eastbound, laden with pig iron.

On the westbound track was a string of box cars, empty. The westbound train was motionless at the time or the resultant damage, it is believed, might have been greater.

The Wellsville wreck crew took charge of the situation a short time later, assisted by a New York Central crew.

The wreckers made almost record time, it is said, in cleaning off the tracks and restoring traffic conditions to normal.

FILES SUIT FOR FORECLOSURE

Suit to recover $90 on a note and secured by deed given April 12, 1926, by Harry C. Reed and Teresa Reed, has been filed in common pleas court by Michael K. Duty, of Wellsville, through his counsel, J. E. O'Grady, of Cleveland.

The deed was on four lots in Arcadia addition, Wellsville, and was to be null and void in the event the note was paid in full at the rate of $3 per month and interest at 6 per cent. Inasmuch as three payments have been defaulted, foreclosure is now sought by the plaintiff.

FIVE FREIGHT CARS DEMOLISHED IN PENNSY WRECK

TRAIN SERVICE HIT BY CRASH NEAR IRONDALE

FLANGE BREAKS

Loaded Gondola, Derailed, Sideswipes String of Empties.

Five box cars, all empty, were practically demolished and approximately 150 feet of track on the main line of the Cleveland & Pittsburgh division of the Pennsylvania railroad was torn up in a freight wreck yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock between Cream City and Irondale. No one was hurt.

Two passenger trains, No. 233, from Pittsburgh to Cleveland, due out of Wellsville at 3:40, and No. 232, from Cleveland to Pittsburgh, due here at 6:25, were delayed several hours as a result of the tie-up.

The break, it is said, occurred on a wheel of a car in about the middle of a string of gondolas, eastbound, laden with pig iron.

On the westbound track was a string of box cars, empty. The westbound train was motionless at the time or the resultant damage, it is believed, might have been greater.

The Wellsville wreck crew took charge of the situation a short time later, assisted by a New York Central crew.

The wreckers made almost record time, it is said, in cleaning off the tracks and restoring traffic conditions to normal.

FILES SUIT FOR FORECLOSURE

The deed was on four lots in Arcadia addition, Wellsville, and was to be null and void in the event the note was paid in full at the rate of $3 per month and interest at 6 per cent. Inasmuch as three payments have been defaulted, foreclosure is now sought by the plaintiff.

Yanks, 10-Games Ahead, Appear To Have Pennant Bagged

By Les Conklin.

NEW YORK, June 29.—The American League race appears to be "in the bag" for the New York Yankees, who are in front by ten games today. They squelched the Athletics again yesterday, 9 to 8, the Mackmen barely failing to tie the score in a sensational ninth-inning rally in which they pounded Shocker, Moore and Pennock for eight runs. The victory evened the series.

Lou Gehrig's 100th hit of the year was his 23rd homer and he needs only one more to tie the injured Ruth.

Pitching honors of the day went to General Alvin Crowder of the Senators, who held the Red Sox to two hits and drove in the winning runs with a double. The score was 4 to 0 and marked Boston's tenth straight defeat.

Lena Blackburne, a star with the White Sox a dozen years ago and now a coach, appeared as a pinch hitter against Cleveland, driving in the tying run in the ninth and scoring the winning tally. Score, 8 to 7.

After staking the Cardinals to a five-run lead, the Pirates beat them out, 9 to 8, by sheer hitting power, and increased their lead to 1 1-2 games. Eight pitchers were used.

With Rixey on the mound, the Reds polished off th eCubs, 8 to 1. Outfielder Zitzmann played at shortstop for Cincy in place of Paul Wanninger, who has been returned to St. Paul.

The speeding Tigers took both twin of a twin bill from the Browns, 9 to 3 and 6 to 3. Heilman pounded out five hits for twelve bases.

PRINTERS DOWN FURNITURES, 7-6

A ninth inning rally that netted two runs enabled the Review-Tribune to nose out the National Furnitures, 7 to 6 in a postponed Recreation league game play-off last evening at Klondyke.

Smith, the Printers' moundsman, let the Furnitures down with seven safeties, while the winners collected 12. While the Furnitures' infield played great ball, the lethargic movements of the outgardners handicapped their efforts.

GOLF CHAMP HAS NARROW SQUEAK

The Youngstown star had a narrow escape in the first round Tuesday when Mrs. E. T. Nicholas, Cleveland gave her a hard battle and was prevented from eliminating the champ only by missing a four foot putt at the seventeenth hole. The match required an extra hole where Miss Fordyce registered a birdie four to win. Mrs Nicholas made birdies on the thirteenth and sixteenth holes after taking ten strokes on the eleventh.

Sets New Swim Record.

NEW YORK, June 29.—A new world's record for the 150-yard medley swim was on the books today. Eleanor Holm, 13-year-old star of the women's swimming association, covered the distance in 2:07 4-5, lowering the old record by 3½ seconds.

James, New Turk-Nash Twirler, Allows Two Hits.

In record time, but one hour and six minutes being necessary to complete the game, Turk-Nash blanked K. T. K at Columbian park, 3 to 0, last evening. Superior pitching by both clubs made possible the speedy performance.

But one error marred the game, and it was excusable. J. Watson unintentionally got in McMath's way at short in the seventh, causing him to fumble A. O'Brosky's drive. But the miscue did no harm since Merchant and Kinsey, following him, went out in order.

James, Turk-Nash's new twirler, made good from the start. Utilizing a side arm, low delivery, he fanned ten opposing batsmen and allowed two hits.

A. Bayley doubled to middle over second. McConnell sacrificed, W. O'Brosky to Merchant. L. McMath went out the same way, A. Bayley going to third from where he finished on E. Bayley's single over second. Schneidmiller grounded to Merchant.

Woods singled to right at the outset of the seventh and went to third on J. Watson's slashing double to left. Springer sent a long fly to Witherow, Woods scoring. James went out, J. O'Brosky to Merchant and J. Watson tallied. A. Bayley was hit and stole second, but Simcox then threw out McConnell at first.

Jack's Mates Forced To Wear Chest Pads

By Sid Mercer.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, N. Y., June 29.—Leo Flynn, in charge of Jack Dempsey's training camp here, equipped the former heavyweight champion's sparring partners with baseball chest protectors today. Flynn doesn't want to be hiring new sparring partners every day, so the middleweights and welterweights who are working with Dempsey will wear wind pads that can be blown up to soften Jack's jolts to the body.

For his second day of boxing Dempsey lengthened the workout to four rounds with the gloves and three on the punching bags. Although he warmed up slowly Dempsey brought a wicked punch into play in the first round when he doubled up Carl Carter with heavy lefts to the stomach. Carter worked only one round but was so badly winded that he had to sit down to take off his gloves.

Martin Burke then speeded Dempsey up for another round and the big fellow was going good when he faced Allentown Joe Gans. Against Gans he stayed in close and hit short, light punches.

Jimmy McMullin, middleweight, stepped the fourth round and was badly used up in three minutes of fast exchanges. A left to the body and a short right to the head almost dropped McMullin and Dempsey eased up toward the finish.

WELTERS BATTLE THURSDAY NIGHT

LONDON, June 29. — London was "fight mad" today on the eve of the bout here tomorrow night between Mickey Walker, world's middleweight champion, and Tommy Milligan, of Scotland. A huge throng of Milligan's supporters, playing bagpipes and singing Scotch airs, mobbed the challenger upon his arrival here from Glasglow and Milligan had to be rescued by police to escape injury.

Hundreds of Americans here plan to be at the ringside to support Walker. Both fighters were confident of victory.

By Charles P. Stewart.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—"Lay off o' that patronizing attitude quick," is the warning that Coolidge well-wishers who know the corn and wheat belt have rushed to the presidential lodge in the Black Hills wilderness, after reading the last few days' newspapers.

Nobody in Washington has any doubt that the Coolidges are plenty cute enough to realize that they're not in any really out-of-the-way part of the country.

It's quite understood that a lot of frontier stuff has been faked for their entertainment. It's recognized that it's perfectly proper for them to play up to it, but the impression the attendant correspondents are giving is that they are actually fooled by it.

SECRETARY EDWARD T. CLARK of the official party is represented as having "unbent" to the extent of dancing with some of the simple South Dakota dairy maids; Mrs. Coolidge as pouring tea for cowboys in chaps, spurs, cartridge belts and bandana handkerchief neckties; the president as having waived all ceremony to sit on the porch and chin with a rough old well-digger who infests that section—Senator Pete Norbeck.

This is all very well to put in down east newspapers, whose readers think buffalo run wild everywhere the other side of Pittsburgh.

But in the western press!—why, out there it's liable to be seen by folk who know the little dairy maids as sub-debs just back from Vassar and Wellesley, and the cattle punchers as Yale and Harvard alumni, and Pete Norbeck—

Well, Pete won't care. Nevertheless, to anybody who ever saw him in his best bib and tucker at a diplomatic function, he's a funny chap to think of as a horny-handed well-digger.

MANY'S the long year since spike-tails per capita, or ladies' sassy imported frocks, have been any fewer in the Black Hills and thereabouts than in any other neck of the woods.

Everybody who's been west of the Missouri in the last two decades knows this passing well; knows too, that the guy who gets himself up in a cowboy regalia — the Black Hills ain't a cattle country anyway — or the girl who rigs herself out in a sunbonnet and a calico wrap, undoubtedly got 'em at a costumers; knows likewise that Hot Springs, in the southern "hills," was a swell summer resort a quarter of a century ago.

It may make snappy reading along the Atlantic seaboard, but it's calculated to cause stomach aches among voters on the other side of the divide.

IF you want some genuine Cinderella dope:

Did you notice that Mrs. Harry Wardman of Washington was presented "at court" the other night—at Buck'ng'm Palace — to England's king and queen?

Well, she was.

Not so very long ago it took blue blood as well as simoleons to crash Buck'ng'm Palace gates. A billionaire's wife couldn't have done it if ever her hubby'd been so much as soiled by "trade."

And who's Harry Wardman?

But what was he in his native England, back in the 90's, before he emigrated, to seek his fortune in the new world?

He was a bricklayer. That's what.
